Q. I am a do-it-yourself fan. I have hunted high and low for lamp shade paper without success. Can you help? Mrs. M.J., Cypress.

A. Pieces of pearl parchment paper used in making lamp shades can be purchased from Treasure Cove, 1236 S. Beach Blvd., Anaheim. The paper comes in 5-by-7-inch squares for 50 cents each. If you are looking for a heavy, white paper used in some lamp shades, a representative of George's Lamps, 16213 S. Clark Ave., Bellflower, said he would try to special-order some for you. You would have to purchase at least five yards. The cost for the 45-inch material is $1.80 a yard. An opaque fiberglass matting often used for lamp shades can be special-ordered through TNT Unlimited, 2022 E. Lincoln Ave., Anaheim. The cost for a 12- by 24-inch sheet is $1.80.

GRAFFITI by Leary

After a private meeting of Democratic governors, Gov. Robert E. McNair, of South Carolina, accused the President of failing to live up to promises for significant withdrawals.

He was joined in his criticism by Gov. Robert W. Scott of North Carolina who said Democratic governors will be asking Vietnam questions of members of the Nixon Administration who appear at the conference.

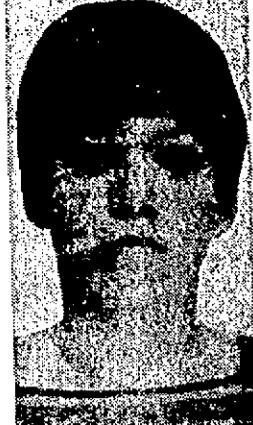

The Democratic caucus considered placing a resolution on the conduct of the war before the conference but delayed a decision until Tuesday. The Democrats are outnumbered 30 to 20 among the nation's governors and a resolution critical of Nixon on the war could not be expected to carry.

"WE TALKED about it (Vietnam), because we wanted to discuss among ourselves what was being done to end the war and what was being done to carry out campaign commitments by the President when he was a candidate," McNair said.

"We find there's been talk of troop withdrawals but apparently nothing really significant done. There was talk of decline in the fighting and yet there was an increase in it."

Scott said the Democrats will try to find out whether there has been any "real meaningful withdrawal and whether the President is going to attempt to follow a timetable" in Vietnam.

The governors, assembling in Colorado Springs for their 51st annual conference, seemed more concerned about the economy than the war.

LOVED TO HITCHHIKE Bound, Dead Woman Identified

Staff Writers

The young woman whose nude, bound and partially-decomposed body was found in a bush-strewn lot was identified Sunday as a 22-year-old Long Beach native whose penchant for hitchhiking may have led to her death at the hands of a killer motorist.

Ventura County officials were faced with a similar crime after the decomposing, naked corpse of an unidentified woman was found at the bottom of a 20-foot ravine near a roadside rest in the Ojai area.

Kathleen Marie Butts, a native of Long Beach who disappeared Aug. 22, was identified after a check of her fingerprints by county medical examiners during an autopsy.

Sandy Flint, 20, her roommate for the past two months, identified Miss Butts from a photograph, and told Detective Sgts. David Bauer and Robert Bell Miss Butts was an inveterate hitchhiker who "liked people, but was afraid nearly every time she got into a stranger's car."

Miss Flint told Sgts. Bauer and Bell she and Miss Butts arrived in Long Beach Aug. 17 after a two-month-long stay in San Diego, where they lived with friends.

The dead girl, whose body was found Friday in a lot at the rear of a furniture store at 2750 E. Pacific Coast Highway, had been staying with Miss Flint, also a Long Beach native, at the home of friends in this city at the time of her disappearance.

Ventura County Coroner's spokesmen said a motorist who pulled off Highway 150 to stretch his legs at the rest stop spotted the body of the second woman, who officials reported also may have been murdered while hitchhiking.

The woman was described as being between 20 and 25 years old, a blonde, standing 5-feet-1 and possibly of Latin descent. Cause of death was undetermined pending an autopsy, tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, during which medical examiners hope to COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Democratic criticism of President Nixon on Vietnam broke out Sunday at the National Governors' Conference.

Our congratulations to the person who questioned the practice of a rental agency which apparently placed a home on a rental list without checking the owner regularly to see if the property had rented. There are, however, rental agencies who do operate with the interests of the landlord and tenants in mind. I work for one and our properties are checked daily for their availability and only qualified persons and properties are matched. We are glad to see an unsatisfactory practice brought to light but do want to point out that there are agencies which operate in a highly ethical manner. As in any other business you patronize, choose a firm with a good reputation. M.S., Lakewood.

Two Men Still Held in Syria

DAMASCUS (AP) — The Syrian government announced Sunday night it is releasing four Israeli women who were on board the American jetliner hijacked by an Arab commando team and forced to land here.

Investigations concerning the four women are over, a government statement said. Arrangements were underway to have them flown to Rome, it added.

The statement did not mention a time for the departure, but the impression here was that the women would be sent on the first Rome-bound plane.

The Syrian statement, however, did not mention the two Israeli men also held by Syrian authorities.

The four women were lodged at a Damascus University dormitory since Friday. The other passengers aboard the hijacked plane were flown out to Athens and Rome Saturday night.

EARLIER in the day, the Italian chargé d'affaires here asked the Syrian Foreign Ministry on behalf of the U.S. government about prospects for releasing the six Israeli passengers.

The diplomat told reporters a decision on the matter would be made when an official inquiry by the Syrian authorities on the hijack is over.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli is reacted coolly to Syria's decision to release the Israeli women.

Foreign Ministry sources said the Syrian announcement led to "graver misgivings" about the fate of the two Israeli men who will remain in Damascus.

"Israel insists on the unconditional release of all the passengers," said one source.

They recalled that when an Israeli airliner was hijacked last year to Algeria, the women passengers

ROCKY MARCIANO

Dead at 46

Marciano Killed in Air Crash

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano was killed Sunday night in the crash of a small airplane two miles south of this central Iowa town, the Jasper County medical examiner said.

Authorities said Marciano and two other men also killed in the crash were en route to Des Moines from Chicago.

The other two men were identified as Frank Farrell, 28, and the pilot, Glen Blez, 27, both of Des Moines.

MARCIANO retired as undefeated world champion April 27, 1958, after winning 49 fights, 43 by knockouts. He would have been 46 today.

Marciano won the title Sept. 23, 1952, with a 13-round knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott. He successfully defended his crown six times until his retirement.

He was born Sept. 1, 1923, in Brockton, Mass. His real name was Rocco Francis Marchegiano.

The square-bodied slugger was known as the "Brockton Strong Boy" because of his ability to absorb terrific punishment and give out worse.

Allies Brace
for Red Offensive

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Monday — South Vietnamese army commanders canceled all military leaves and days off today placing their forces on full alert in anticipation of a new Communist offensive in line with North Vietnam's Independence Day next Tuesday. U.S. military forces said there had been no change in the regular alert status of the more than 500,000 American troops in Vietnam. Fighting was light and scattered throughout Vietnam Sunday, but 10 Americans were killed and 41 others wounded. Communists suffered at least 110 losses during the day. Intelligence sources said captured documents and prisoner interrogations indicate the Communists will launch a new round of widespread shellings and ground assaults in the 11 provinces surrounding Saigon possibly as early as tonight.

Huge Opium Cache Seized

WASHINGTON — French police have seized $1.3-million worth of raw opium concealed in cotton bales aboard a ship at Marseilles, the U.S. Justice Department said Sunday. A Turkish merchant and a Lebanese national were arrested in Nice in connection with the shipment. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the seizure was made Saturday based on information supplied French authorities by the Justice Department. The 1,256 pounds of raw opium was apparently headed for secret heroin conversion plants in southern France, considered the major waypoint for heroin entering the U.S.

Aussie Official Beaten at Party

MELBOURNE, Australia — Three men and two women crashed a party being given by a top member of Australia's Parliament early Sunday and beat him unconscious with a wooden statue. Dr. James F. Cairns, foreign affairs spokesman in Parliament for the opposition Labor Party, received a head cut and a concussion. His wife also was assaulted. The intruders left in a rush after ransacking Mrs. Cairns' jewelry but police were working on the theory the assault might have been political since Cairns is one of the most outspoken critics of Australia's Vietnam commitment.

Quakes Shock Mexico

MEXICO CITY — Two earthquakes shook southern Mexico Sunday in an area already reeling from disastrous floods. There were no immediate reports of damage from the quakes, which were not felt in any of the major cities of the area. But communications in the region were in shambles after three weeks of heavy flooding, and many jungle towns and villages were totally isolated.

A boy and girl stripped naked, jumped into a vast square of foam, and made love amid a watchful sea of faces at the Isle of Wight pop festival Sunday night. "Ain't that the greatest," shouted the crowd, and a wave of applause broke out.

The tiny island off England's south coast reeled under the impact of nearly 200,000 fans who had traveled from all over the world to worship the high priest of pop-folk, Bob Dylan. He kept the weirdly dressed masses waiting for 36 hours before he climbed onto the open-air stage late in the evening to a deafening ovation.

Dylan, in white suit, yellow shirt and olive green buckle boots, disappointed the crowd when he cut short his expected appearance by an hour. After 14 songs in two hours, he just walked off the stage, with thousands chanting for him.

The unscheduled lovemaking by the teen-agers shocked some of the audience, but no move was made to stop the display of the full sex act. Some fans stood staring in disbelief. For much of the time the couple were up to their thighs in foam, and occasionally they disappeared beneath it. The foam had been laid down by the organizers as an added attraction. Hundreds of youngsters were playing with balloons in the vast square of foam when the young couple suddenly stripped. The police, who did not see the incident, said they would take no action unless a formal complaint was made.

Actress Jane Fonda, nestling through the night in the arms of her husband, French movie director Roger Vadim, called the festival "an audio-visual sensation." Many other stars were expected but in the crush it was impossible to say whether they actually turned up. These included parts of the Beatles and Rolling Stones pop groups, Elizabeth Taylor and her son, Michael Wilding. It was the first appearance for Dylan in a year and ended three years of semi-retirement since his motorcycle accident. The reception given him was the greatest ever given to a pop singer in Britain. Looting, Shooting
Outbreak in Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — A disturbance with looting, shooting, rock-throwing and at least one firebombing broke out in Fort Lauderdale Sunday night after police broke up a drag race. Sheriff's Department Major Thomas Atkinson said that four hours after the disturbance began, roadblocks had been removed from the area on northwest side of Fort Lauderdale and police patrols in groups of four moved into the area. "There is widespread looting throughout the area," Atkinson said. But he said there had been no shooting in the area "for quite some time." Atkinson said 15 to 20 persons were injured. One automobile was set ablaze with a firebomb.

Blacks Interrupt Convention

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — A barefoot group of blacks Sunday night brazenly seized the floor of a special Episcopal convention — only a few hours after they had been granted a greater role in it. As the church's governing body went into its first plenary session, set up as an emergency measure to give a strengthened voice and vote to blacks, youths and women, the demonstrators took over the stage. Cries of "throw them out" rang out in the gathering of more than 1,000 church people at Notre Dame University's Convocation Hall. A church official had just started a discourse on missions when one of the group, Mohamad Kenyatta, a Philadelphia black militant, grabbed the microphone. The dissenters were given 10 minutes to present their case. Essentially, it was a plea that the convention postpone all other business to act at once to strengthen support to the Black Economic Development Conference, which seeks large-scale financial reparations to blacks. Officials ruled the matter out of order.

THREE INJURED

CHP Auto Hit;
Sixth in a Month

Maybe the California Highway Patrol in Orange County ought to switch to tanks.

For the sixth time in a month, a CHP cruiser was smashed into from the rear.

In the latest smash-up, a Long Beach youth, a Lakewood youth and a San Diego woman were hurt. The cruiser and another car were demolished.

A CHP spokesman said officers William House and Richard Kilday stopped Patrick Morrison, of San Diego, on the San Diego Freeway near Mission Viejo at 3:45 p.m. Saturday for a traffic citation. With Morrison was his expectant wife, Sandra.

While the officers and Morrison were at the side of the road, along came a fast-moving car driven by John B. Wallstrom, 18, of 2820 69th St., with a passenger, Ted Sawzak, 19, of 5602 Bonfair Road, Lakewood.

Officers said the Wallstrom car hit the rear of the stopped cruiser, forcing the cruiser into the back of the Morrison car in which Mrs. Morrison was sitting.

Wallstrom was treated at South Coast Community Hospital for cuts and released. Sawzak was taken to Hoag Memorial Hospital with cuts and possible head injuries. Mrs. Morrison, who complained of back and leg pains was examined at South Coast, officers said, and released.

Officers said the accident remains under investigation.

Mrs. Pat Nixon will return to her hometown of Cerritos Friday for the dedication of a new park in her honor and restoration of her childhood home into a children's library or museum. gram will be Cerritos Mayor Tony Cordeiro and State Sen. George Deukmejian. Gov. Ronald Reagan has been invited to be master of ceremonies, but has not yet confirmed whether he will attend.

Cerritos Chamber of Commerce manager John Corcoran said there are no plans for President Nixon to join in the program, but it is expected he will be on hand.

Mrs. Nixon, assisted by four Girl Scouts with gold shovels, will plant a community Christmas tree at the groundbreaking ceremonies for the park. She also will present Cerritos with an American flag that has flown over the U.S. Capitol.

The First Lady has requested that the home be converted into a children's library, but the townspeople want to make it into a museum.

The park, adjacent to the Carver Elementary School, will include a children's playground and a picnic area.

Work now is under way to restore Yorba Linda Nixon's birthplace, into a national landmark in accordance with the traditional restoration of homes of first families.

Mrs. Nixon accepted the invitation from Cerritos last June, writing town officials: "I shall be proud and happy to have a park near my family's home."

Nelson Lauer's 15-Inch Feet Trip Marines

Marine's Big Feet
No Small Issue

By JACK MCFARREN

Staff Writer

To most Marines, basic training is "boot camp."

Pvt. Nelson Lauer, of Bippus, Ind., may remember his recruit days as "tennis shoe camp."

Tennis shoes were what the 20-year old Marine — who stands 6-foot-7 inches and weighs 210 pounds according to his green Armed Service identification — wore through nine weeks of basic training at San Diego.

It seems the Marine Corps can't find boots to fit the soft-spoken farm boy's size 15½ feet.

Lauer is now in advanced infantry training at Camp Pendleton. He's been in the Marine Corps 90 days and he finally has a pair of shiny Marine dress shoes — but no boots.

He spent a one-day pass Sunday with his uncle, Roland Seal, in Westminster.

Seal believes the situation is "ridiculous."

"The boy is obviously physically unfit for the military. As an American, he's willing to serve his country, but he's got bunions, bad ankles . . . it's just too much."

Seal said he would bring pressure to bear on the Marine Corps "to do something besides say the boots will arrive any day."

"I'm going to contact my congressman and I'll get legal aid if necessary. I'm acting for the boy's father in his son's interest."

Lauer said the Marine Corps was placing him on "casual" — or light duty — status for the next week.

"I told them I couldn't go up into the hills for training . . . my feet are too swollen and sore."

First Lt. David H. White, officer of the day for the 2nd Battalion of the Advanced Infantry Training Regiment at Camp Pendleton, spoke for the Marine Corps, Sunday.

"The Marine Corps ordered boots for Pvt. Lauer at the same time boots for the rest of his basic training company were ordered."

"Up to this time, he hasn't needed any more than tennis shoes, but now, since his company is going on to rougher training, he will be transferred to casual duty until the boots arrive."

Pvt. Lauer is scheduled to be sent to Vietnam in November, his uncle said.

WORKER CLEANS UP 'MUCK' LEFT BY LONG BEACH OIL WELL BLOWOUT SUNDAY

Oil Well Blowout Cuts Power

A Long Beach oil well blow out early Sunday, sending a brackish mixture of petroleum, sand and salt water shooting 150 feet into the air and causing electrical power failures in two sections of the city.

The well at Manila Avenue and Colorado Street, was capped after the geyser-like spout subsided at about 7:30 a.m.

Several homes in the area were evacuated as a precaution.

The well is operated by the D. W. Elliott Co., of Newport Beach.

A high-pressure pocket of natural gas about 2,000 feet below ground was blamed for the blowout, according to spokesmen for the Oil Well Service Co., 2405 Orange Ave.

Spokesmen for the Southern California Edison Co. said the stream of "gunk" spattered onto electrical power transmission lines in the area, causing a temporary power surge on two circuits.

Power was blacked out in sections of College Park and Alamitos Heights, according to Edison, who said emergency repair operations on all affected lines had been completed by 6:30 a.m.

Residents reported seeing sparks and lightning-like flares in some sections of College Park and Alamitos Heights.

Police and fire department switchboards were flooded with calls from concerned residents.

Four fire fighting units under the command of Battalion Chief Thomas Cady stood by the well site in case of fire.

Oil Well Service Co. spokesmen said petroleum content of the well-spout was very low, thus lessening the danger of fire or explosion.

Police units sealed off traffic approaches within moments of the blowout.

Kite Cuts Power to 900 Homes

An old kite-string was tentatively blamed for a North Long Beach power blackout from 8:07 to 9:23 p.m. Sunday.

Southern California Edison Company said the "string may have pulled a couple of conductors together." The result was a circuit break which left 900 customers without lights.

The area affected was generally between Carson Street, Cherry Avenue, San Antonio Drive and Orange Avenue.

cerned, however, over a money squeeze developing as tax sources dried up for the states and demand for services increased.

Strong support developed among the governors for a proposal by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the federal government to take over the full cost of welfare. However, Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California seemed headed for a clash on the subject.

Several homes in the area were evacuated as a precaution.

ARRIVING at the conference, Reagan put up storm signals about the Rockefeller proposal.

"I haven't seen his (Rockefeller's) proposal, and I don't want to comment on it specifically except that the answer has to be something other than just finding a way to finance welfare," Reagan said. "I'm always worried when you give all these things over to the federal government."

Publicly, most Democrats as well as Republican governors at the conference were giving high marks to Nixon's Administration so far.

There was no immediate official reaction here to a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers that Washington would pursue the case of the Israelis in order to get them freed.

THERE has been no official information about the whereabouts of the two hijackers who commanded the plane Friday over the Adriatic Sea shortly after it left Rome. Syrian officials said the pair, a man and a young woman, carried Iraqi diplomatic passports.

Rockefeller insisted the states were entitled to more help on welfare than the $4.2 billion President Nixon proposed. At the same time, McNair said Governors has heard that the cost of the Nixon proposals would be $12 billion to $28 billion rather than the $4.2 billion officials estimate.

Publicly, most Democrats as well as Republican governors at the conference were giving high marks to Nixon's Administration so far.

First it said the hijackers wanted to capture an Israeli responsible for inflicting anguish on many Palestinians. Then it said an Israeli of "scientific and military importance" was aboard; possibly a reference to Prof. Samueloff.

In Cairo, a Front spokesman said the hijackers wanted the Israelis aboard as hostages for release of "Syrian comrades in Israeli torture prisons."

In Jerusalem, Foreign Ministry spokesman David Rivlin said Israel was not looking into the possibility of exchanging captured Arab guerrillas for the Israeli passengers.

WOMEN FREED

were soon released but the men were freed much later.

MOST OF the 101 passengers and 11 of the crew members of the Trans World Airlines jet left Saturday night aboard a special Al Italia flight for Athens and Rome.

The six Israelis, the hijackers, a Filipina woman and her four children and the jetliner's skipper, Capt. Dean Carter, stayed behind.

A TWA spokesman in Rome said Carter would remain in Syria until the detained Israelis were released.

TWA made the announcement after the Israeli transport ministry issued a statement in Jerusalem expressing shock that the airliner's crew had left Damascus without the Israelis.

The ministry sent a telegram to TWA president Charles C. Tillinghast Jr. in New York declaring that "the captain should not leave Syria without all the Israeli passengers."

The Israelis include three women, a 15-year-old girl and two elderly men, one believed to be Prof. Shlomo Samueloff of Jerusalem's Hebrew University.

Did Hoover Move Agents for Cohn's Sake?

NEW YORK (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover personally transferred on 36 hours notice, three agents who had cooperated with U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau in a court case against wealthy lawyer Roy M. Cohn, Life magazine said Sunday.

Life said the agents were transferred after Louis Nichols, one-time assistant to Hoover and a friend of Cohn, "charged into the Washington headquarters of the bureau demanding that the agents be censured."

The three — Donald Jones, Russell Sullivan and Jack Knox — had submitted to Morgenthau's office in New York detailed affidavits contradicting allegations made by convict Milton Pollack.

Pollack had said that Morgenthau's assistants had promised to help get him a pardon if he would assist in "inveigling Roy Cohn into some transaction that could result in his prosecution."

Pollack's statements were offered in court by Cohn in an attempt to prove Morgenthau was prosecuting him on bribery, conspiracy and fraud counts because of a personal "vendetta."

A federal judge later ruled that Morgenthau's personal feelings toward Cohn, one-time chief counsel for the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., had no bearing on the case, and refused to dismiss the charges. The case is awaiting trial. Cohn is charged with conspiring with three other men in payment of $23,000 in bribes in connection with New York City's condemnation of the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines Inc.

The agents had violated FBI rules by not submitting copies to the Washington headquarters before turning the affidavits over to Morgenthau, Life said.

Cohn promptly turned his copies over to Nichols.

who charged into the Washington headquarters of the bureau and demanded that the agents be censured. Nichols recently told Life that he thought the agents had acted improperly and that he felt the FBI headquarters ought to know about it," the magazine said.

Life said Cohn had been instrumental in securing Nichols a $100,000-a-year-plus-benefits post with a distilling company after his retirement from the FBI in 1957.

Nichols was not available for comment.

Life said Hoover transferred the agents on May 2, — Jones to St. Louis, Sullivan to Louisville and Knox to Pittsburgh—giving them 30 days to report. The time was later reduced to 35 hours after Morgenthau protested the action to John F. Malone, head of the FBI's New York office, the magazine said.

Life said the episode "thoroughly shook up some of Morgenthau's witnesses," who thought, "If Cohn through Nichols could bring about arbitrary transfer of three FBI agents, what chance had an ordinary citizen?"

In Washington, an FBI spokesman declined to comment on the magazine's story.

Two Claim to Be S.F. Marshal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two men say they are the U.S. marshal for these parts. Both have been appointed by a U.S. president.

George F. Tobin says he is the rightful marshal having been appointed by President Nixon and confirmed by the Senate this year. Louis H. Martin has served as U.S. marshal for northern California since his appointment by former President Lyndon B. Johnson last year—and says he won't resign.

Martin says Johnson appointed him to a four-year term and it "takes some one of equal stature to remove me." Nixon, he says, never formally removed him.

HE SAYS HE has gotten only one indication that his $27,000-a-year job is in jeopardy: A letter from Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst "that I have had it."

Martin, 53, is a Democrat and former publisher of a labor newspaper. Tobin, a former California Highway Patrol captain, is a Republican.

An installation ceremony for Tobin was canceled last Friday because Chief U.S. District Judge George B. Harris refused to swear him in until a vacancy is declared.

Tobin says a letter removing Martin should have been in Judge Harris' hands last Friday.

Martin said he would have submitted his resignation long ago, but realized Tobin's appointment was "partisan."

He said Tobin was a "Democrat until last November."

Tunnels for Sale

TOKYO (UPI) — Five railroad tunnels and the strip of land that houses them are for sale by Japan National Railways for $103,000. The company has rebuilt a 60-year-old line to bypass the tunnels, which are 200 miles north of Tokyo and total about 4,500 feet. JNR says they'd make ideal hotels because they are cool in summer and warm in winter.

STUDENTS CONVENE TO HARASS 'THE ENEMY'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Young sociologists, denouncing their professors as the enemy, Sunday set up a "counter-revolution" across the street from the convention of the American Sociological Association.

The insurgents, members of the Sociology Liberation Movement, are graduate students and junior faculty. They accused men at the top of their profession of everything from laziness, stupidity, irrelevance and sex prejudice to intellectual prostitution.

"We plan some disruptions," said the rebels, but they had not decided what to do. They did plan "truth squads" for heckling sessions of the regular convention and a rock band and light show and discussion groups for perhaps 500 in Glide Memorial Methodist Church.

"I consider our sessions more scholarly than anything at the professors' convention," said Erwin Sperber, a University of California doctoral candidate. Like many of the radicals, whether Sperber gets his doctorate will depend on his professors.

IN QUARTERS of the Hilton Hotel, scene of the ASA convention of 3,000, the young sociologists were the main subject of conversation. Professors were mostly tolerant and amused by the young people's fury.

The traditional convention provided facilities in the hotel for at least four seminars to be conducted by the sociology liberation movement, but the gesture brought no gratitude.

"They (the hotel seminars) are an attempt on the part of the ASA power elite to co-opt radicals so that the convention will run smoothly," said the rebels' statement. "The times for these sessions are either in conflict with sessions likely to be controversial, or in the noon hour when all the fat cats go for eats."

The attack on the professors was so general the rebels clearly won some sympathy from different groups. Some of the stoutest support was given by women who complained they hold only 3 per cent of the full professorships in the field.

THEIR SEX, they said, is deliberately kept in servile roles as instructors and research assistants. They said universities should be forced to give women 50 per cent of graduate school openings.

The professors, usually considered a liberal group, were accused of "selling out" for government grants and consultant fees, giving advice to war-involved organizations and rationalizing government policies.

"The extent of intellectual prostitution of those who oppress and manipulate others may have already reached the point of no return," a rebel flyer said.

It said the aim of the sociology liberation movement was "to destroy the power structure of the profession, eliminate the power elite that controls a profession through its undemocratic structure, and redefine sociology to correspond to social reality."

Population 1, But Not a Ghost Town

By EARL CALDWELL,
New York Times Service

BELMONT, Nev. — She stood there in the dim kitchen light with a scowl on her face and peered out through the dusty screen door.

"You know I just ran two fellows out of here," she said sharply. "That's right, I ran 'em outta here. They come nosing around here, digging into things and not asking anybody. I ran 'em off. These damn tourists."

Rose Walters was in a foul mood.

"They go around calling this a ghost town," she continued. "The set that stuff out of those western magazines. Well this is no ghost town. This was never a ghost town."

The old mining town sits there at the top of the canyon in the shadow of the Toquima range. It appears abandoned. The old red brick courthouse is hollow and empty, the saloon decayed and crumbling, and the dance hall across the street almost gone.

Down the side of the canyon the jagged shells of the old buildings stick out in the twilight.

Out on main street the wind moves the sand and bounces the tumbleweed off the crumbling buildings.

There is a splash of light down at the saloon, and there is also the light from Rose Walters' kitchen.

There are no telephones, no policemen, no firemen. There is only Rose Walters. She is the only permanent resident of Belmont, tucked away in a quiet valley in central Nevada.

Mrs. Walters is a tall, tough woman with keen blue eyes and white hair. She likes to be abrupt.

"Now I don't like this asking my age," she snaps, acting offended. But she quickly adds: "I'm 76."

Over in Tonopah, about 50 miles away, they call Belmont "Rose Walters' Town." She was born and raised here. She says she will never leave.

"I'm happy here and happiness is what we're searching for, isn't it?"

In the summer there are 10 and sometimes as many as 20 people living here.

Labor Leader

Urge Action on Nation's Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California labor official in a Labor Day message to trade union members, said that labor must move quickly and unitedly on voter registration, air and water pollution, and state and national tax reform.

Thomas L. Pitts, Secretary-Treasurer of the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, said labor should be proud of its contribution to the landing of men on the moon but must strive to solve many problems facing it in the state and the nation.

Students Will Find Stiffer Campus Regulations

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Students returning to college this month will find that new laws have been passed in more than half the states by legislatures gathered over the last spring's campus disruptions. But in many cases the new laws are less tough than originally was expected.

This apparent national awareness that college in 1969-70 is a sociological experience, and not merely books and ivy, football games and pretty girls, is further reflected in the fact that nearly every legislature in the country has at least debated what to do when the students rise up against the colleges and universities.

Reports from New York Times correspondents in state capitals show that the introduction of guns by black students on to the Cornell University campus was, inferentially at least, a major trigger touching off both the legislation and the debate.

New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, West Virginia, South Carolina and Texas passed laws aimed at keeping guns off the campuses.

Most legislation, however, was designed to give state authorities, including local police, easy access to campuses, where students are rioting and demonstrating.

SOME OF THE legislation, many legal experts believe, is of questionable constitutionality. A bill passed by Louisiana, for example, defines a riot as a disturbance caused by three or more persons.

Much of the legislation denies scholarship and other financial aide to student activists arrested for taking part in demonstrations and riots.

Despite all this legislation, most of the state legislatures reacted with considerable restraint to local pressures for tougher laws.

Thus, in California, for example, more than 100 bills were introduced dealing in one way or another with campus unrest. And nearly every one sailed through committees in the State Senate.

The restraining force, finally, was the new Republican Assembly Speaker, Robert Monagan, of San Joaquin County, who appointed a special committee to investigate the problem.

The committee chairman was a conservative Republican, Assemblyman John Stull of San Diego County, who held exhaustive hearings at which college administrators, faculty members, students and police and citizens were encouraged to testify.

WHAT FINALLY emerged was two bills, which won the general support of all but the most conservative and most liberal legislators.

The bills generally made present laws against disturbing the peace precisely and easily applicable to campus disorders, tightened a statute empowering administrators to keep troublesome nonstudents and suspended and dismissed students off campuses; established procedures by which students, faculty members and other university employees could be disciplined; provided for forfeiture of state aid to students convicted of unlawful conduct, and permitted campus administrators to declare states of emergency at their schools.

Perhaps the most potentially far-reaching piece of legislation involving campus unrest is under consideration in Massachusetts, where it has passed the House and is expected to pass the Senate and be signed into law by Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

It provides for student representation on the boards of trustees of the University of Massachusetts and other state institutions of higher education. The students would become full voting members of the boards.

Another piece of legislation in the works in the state is more typical of the laws being passed around the country.

IT CALLS for the dismissal from school or the loss of scholarship aid or grants to students participating in demonstrations that result in property damage or injury to persons. It, too, is expected to pass.

Massachusetts did pass a gun bill making it a criminal offense — punishable by a year in jail or a $1,000 fine or both — to possess any sort of firearms anywhere on the campus of a state college or university.

In West Virginia, the Legislature passed a bill that did not specifically single out campus riots but was aimed at covering trouble on campuses, if the need arose.

The law gives state police, sheriffs and mayors the right to suppress riots, to command assistance of all persons present in the arrest of rioters, and to impose curfews and to enter private dwellings and other places "when in fresh pursuit of a rioter," when in search of a sniper or when attempting to find firearms or explosives.

This bill also provides for the speedy arraignment of those charged with rioting and even fines policemen $100 if they fail to report for duty in riot areas.

IT ALSO absolves officers from blame for the killing or wounding of a rioter and provides that all persons engaged in rioting shall be deemed equally guilty if an officer is killed or wounded during the riot.

In Texas, a bill was passed which would make it unlawful to exhibit firearms or threaten to use or exhibit firearms "to interfere with the normal activities and the normal occupancy or use of buildings on campuses." Under certain conditions, an offender would be punishable with up to five years in prison.

Other states which took some form of action included North Carolina, Idaho, Nevada, Iowa, South Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, North Dakota, Michigan, Indiana, Arkansas, Washington, Minnesota, Colorado and Alabama.

Rockfest Youths 'Groove in Peace'

Associated Press

Thousands of young fans flocked to pop music festivals Sunday and grooved in peace despite problems from sunstroke to traffic jams, drug abuses to being just plain sick.

An estimated 20,000 were at the Texas International Pop Festival in Lewisville, enduring the plus-90 degree weather to hear the music.

Hospital officials in Dallas said a 3-year-old girl was being treated for the effects of the drug LSD, swallowed at the festival. And a man died from apparent heat prostration Saturday.

At the Sky River Rock Festival and Lighter Than Air Fair near Tenino, Wash., there were a number of cases of sunstroke, sunburn and some drug abuse. Others were described by authorities as sick from too much to drink on a hot day. Most were treated at a festival first-aid station.

The 25 were arrested on drugs charges; the festival sponsors said.

About 3,000 persons attended the event in a farm field. They heard rock star Tim Hardin and several other performers during the peaceful three-day festival.

IN TEXAS, a special tent called by one attendant "the bad trip tent," had 30 patients before Saturday's show. But one of the festival's promoters, Alex Cooley of Atlanta, Ga., said "We have seen no indications of drug abuse."

Nevertheless, repeated pleas were made over loud-speakers for responsibility.

"Take a little caution and don't share with a stranger," a bearded man at the microphone told the audience. "Remember, not everyone agrees with what you're doing."

About 1,000 hippies passed up the Texas festival for a festival of their

AFL-CIO HEAD CITES 'CONFLICT OF INTEREST'

Meany Opposes Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said Sunday his organization will oppose Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's confirmation as a Supreme Court Justice on the ground of conflict of interest.

He said union witnesses in Senate Judiciary Committee hearings on Haynsworth's appointment will focus on a case in which he ruled in favor of the Deering-Milliken textile company, which, in turn, had business relations with a vending machine company in which Haynsworth was a major stockholder.

Meany was interviewed on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

When interviewers suggested that this case had been investigated and that Haynsworth had been absolved by the then Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and federal Circuit Judge Simon Sobeloff, Meany said:

"They did not absolve him from a conflict of interest. They absolved him from any charge of bribery."

"It is a critical point because a lawyer for the textile union made this charge. There was no foundation for the charge of bribery, but there is foundation for the conflict-of-interest charge, and a violation of the ethics of the Bar Association."

Meany insisted that Kennedy and Sobeloff didn't pass on the question of conflict of interest because it was not before them and they were not aware of the facts.

When a questioner noted that Kennedy wrote Sobeloff "I share your expression of complete confidence in Judge Haynsworth," Meany said:

"That is right, but the charge of conflict of interest was not before Mr. Kennedy; it was not before Judge Sobeloff. The charge was bribery, and if Kennedy said that he had 'great confidence' in him, he didn't know this conflict of interest. It was not in the record, it was not brought out, it was not charged."

Haynsworth, a U.S. Circuit Court judge from South Carolina, has acknowledged that he held stock in vending machine company at the time he ruled in favor of Deering-Milliken but has denied any wrongdoing and pointed to the views of Sobeloff and Kennedy expressed after the textile union lawyer's charge.

tants in Pittsburgh "are just impatient, and I don't think they could come up with the qualified people" even if unions threw their membership wide open to racial minority groups.

Shultz said "there is a huge demand in the construction trades for skilled workers. The jobs are there. The problem is to get more of the people trained in the skills needed" and he said "there is a need to expand the number of skilled construction workers."

Shultz was interviewed over the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation" and Meany over the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

Reuther Chides Unions Ignoring Forces of Change

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther in a Labor Day message chided other unions for not dealing more effectively with the forces of social change.

Reuther, who pulled his 1.4-million member UAW out of the giant AFL-CIO by refusing to pay dues and then joined with the 1.7-million member Teamsters to form the Alliance for Labor Action, said union members must join with the rest of society to find the answer to the problems of all the people.

"The creation of the Alliance for Labor Action holds out the prospect of this Labor Day 1969, of a bright new era in which a strengthened and revitalized labor movement will become a more effective instrument in the continuing struggle to win a fuller measure of social and economic justice for American wage earners and their families," Reuther said.

"The inflationary price spiral that has been squeezing the worker and consumer is the result of selfish indifference by America's industrial powers," he said. "Their callous greed and refusal to share fairly with their employees and customers have meant that profits have outstripped gains in wages almost three times and have piled price increases on top of price increases."

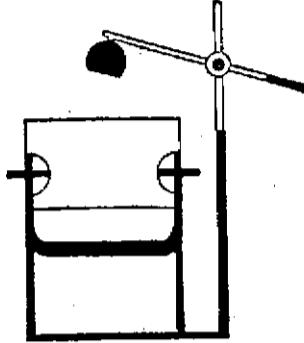

He said corporate profits rose 94 per cent in the past nine years while the average wage rose only 33 per cent and buying power 10 per cent.

YOUR HOROSCOPE
by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Tuesday

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your main task is to combat the urge to indulge yourself. Many long-time habits need to be replaced. This is not a year for undertaken commitments. Instead, it is a period of preparation for big changes in life. Some long-term commitments will definitely have to go, and can be lost rather easily if you are careless.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): After a period of rest, you are now ready to go. You succeed well according to what you put into it. Take a picture for a moment's reflection once in a while.

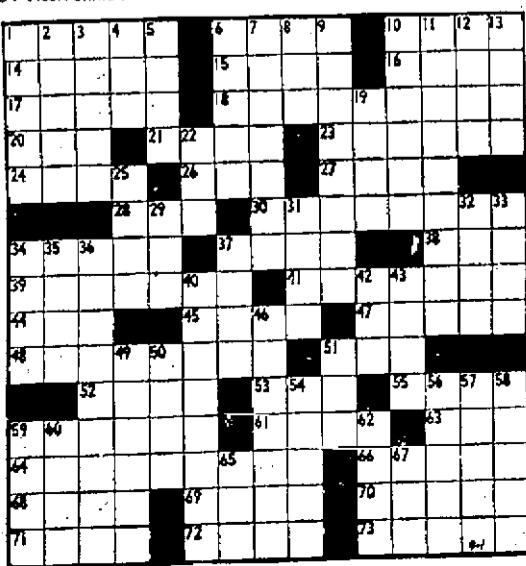

gemini (May 21-June 21): Conditions are improving, and you are more optimistic. Your efforts are well received, and you should interest your family.

aries (March 21-April 19): Your attitudes are likely to succeed today — if you hold and construct. You friends are also interested. You strongly dislike ceiling.

gemini (May 21-June 21): Conditions are improving, and you are more optimistic. Your efforts are well received, and you should interest your family.

aries (March 21-April 19): Your attitudes are likely to succeed today — if you hold and construct. You friends are also interested. You strongly dislike ceiling.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Consolidate your financial resources. Any worn or outdated belongings should be cleared out. Your favorite charity could use a range of help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Today seems full of sudden pressures for new thoughts, decisions, changes of pace. Some long-term commitments will definitely have to go, and can be lost rather easily if you are careless.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New friends will attract your interest, but you shouldn't be too attracted. An afternoon deal which tends to help your ignorance, security and indecision outlast.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The temptation today is toward too much of this, that, and the other. You should just eat for the sake of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are not special, but you are not bad. In no time at all, the most important part of your life is the most important part of your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Simplicity matters this morning, by either a no or a simple answer by holding a simple direction.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your mind is not in the mood for anything but the most simple and honest anxieties — remain calm. The evening is much better, good for garlics.

It Was Nostalgia Night at the Bowl

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

The hot chocolate was selling like crazy at Hollywood Saturday night.

And why not? For this next to last pops event of the season, the night air was chilled to what seemed the lowest temperatures of the summer. Hot chocolate and coffee, as well as other well-known body-warming beverages, were being consumed in even larger quantities than usual.

On the big Bowl stage, behind our favorite reflecting pool — which Saturday saw the first water-and-fire intermission show of the week — the evening was divided between two middle of the road pop attractions from the distant and recent past, the Mills Brothers and Peter Nero.

The Mills Brothers' half was nostalgia time, naturally, and the extant trio sang a parcel of its old hits, like "Paper Doll," "Yellow Bird," "Opus One," "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," etc., etc. The friendly, far from overflowing, over-thirty, audience loved every minute of it.

By his own best standard, pianist Nero was playing shoddily during his half of the proceedings. He got through, of course, very nicely, but this was definitely not an Up Night.

The low point was a blues session with his trio (Jack Rosengarten on drums, Gene Cherico on bass) when all three failed to catch fire. There was also his jazz variations on "I've Got Rhythm," an overlong Cole Porter Medley, a "West Side Story" suite, and the inevitable (this year) "Mrs. Robinson."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though Interstate Highways account for only one percent of the nation's streets and roads, they probably carry 20 percent of all traffic. Vacation and pleasure drivers alone usually roll up 50 billion miles of travel a year on the expressways.

This Young Actress Tells 'How It Is'

NEW YORK — I have a guest columnist today who didn't sign her name.

Her letter says a lot to those who want to act...

Dear Mr. Wilson: I'm sitting here wondering just how many are we — the young promising actresses.

If I sent you my picture, would you print it and say I'm 'up and coming' too? Can I tell you of my many writing projects — from plays to poems to songs (even greeting cards)? Could I tell you of my life, my hopes — and would you tell your readers?

Dear Earl Wilson, will you tell it again? How many there are of us — and how few the jobs? Will you tell us to have patience — to keep making the rounds, knocking on doors — because if we want it bad enough, we will work!

I'm tired of telling it to myself.

I'm not a starry-eyed ingenue from Iowa. I don't care if I ever play Broadway. But isn't it a shame there aren't enough National Theaters so every actor and actress could do good and beautiful plays to their heart's content?

I was at a call, a few weeks ago, a half hour early — I was number 49.

When I was younger and they said it wouldn't be easy, I'd defiantly say "I know," but now I say "Why not?" Why isn't it easy? Why, if you are talented and dedicated, isn't it possible to never be without work if you wish?

Dear Mr. Wilson, if I give you my sorrows, will you carry them for a moment while I dry my eyes?

Disappointment over not getting roles — that I didn't care for anyway — has weakened me. But I don't quit ... I'm alive on stage ... Bright, beautiful, fine...

And when I think of my vocation, I am not afraid of life...

Sincerely,

"Just Another Sea Gull

stead, he brings about her downfall, and leaves her with an illegitimate child; in a sense she is destroyed.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH:

Herb Shriner explained at the Roxy that ex-Pres. Hoover was so rich when he was in office that he used to turn some of his salary back to the government. "The idea kinda caught on," says Herb. "Now we're all doin' it."

EARL'S PEARLS: Joe E. Lewis told an audience in Buffalo, "I think this is my first visit to Buffalo. I'm not sure, though — I'll have to check over my towels."

And here's one that sounds very much up to

Sincerely,

"Just Another Sea Gull

The special tragedy of this letter will be understood by those familiar with Chekhov's play, "The Sea Gull." In it, there's a girl desperately wanting to be an actress, and a writer who claims to be helping her achieve her goal. In date: "With so many politicians anxious to be mayor of New York City, it's com- forling too that only one can be elected." That's

MALCOLM

CALIFORNIANS who have a $750 reduction coming on their property assessed valuation for 1969-70 taxes have until tomorrow to file applications for the offset.

What I can't figure out is why they have to file at all. Surely no one would refuse a reduction in his tax base. So why not just automatically extend it to all qualified taxpayers?

Maybe they just want to keep us confused. In fact, it appears that everybody, from gov. down, is confused about California finances and tax procedures. Imagine, finding $80 million lying around they didn't know they had, as happened the other day. It's scary.

WHEN I had occasion to call Walter Rackel, 1215 E. 7th, I told him I was curious about his business — the Overnight Saw Service.

"Seems like you ought to be in a lumber camp," I said.

"Oh, we have lots of saw servicing to do around here," said George. "Among other jobs, we're doing all the saw work for the Queen Mary."

Gee, are they now going to saw the old girl in two?

EVERY DAY on the streets there are hundreds of little demonstrations of the old competitive spirit.

It happens at the stop light when a red light is holding the cars.

One creeps forward a little. Right away the drivers on one side, the other, or both, creep forward. Nobody's going to let anybody else get the jump. It's a fine attitude and long may it last.

LONG Beach Kiwanis Club will be 50 years old this month. That means it probably has some members who are nearly as old as Rotarians.

The big anniversary dinner is set for Sept. 16. Bud Holton, the chairman, has asked me to pass on an invitation to any old-time Kiwanians — gents who once belonged but have moved or retired — who might wish to attend. These old-timers should notify Bud at Holton's Mortuary — and there's no significance intended in that, either.

PEOPLE who agree with this dept. and others that there ought to be a central transport depot in Long Beach will be pleased to know the master is getting some study.

City Mgr. John Mansell has so informed Vito Romans of Downtown Associates. Mansell said that Gruen and Associates, now making a study of the city, will include an examination of a bus depot, etc. and that Chief Engineer Lou Possner of the Franchise Bureau will study "the more immediate aspects."

City shelves are weighted with the reports of various "studies" but let's hope something real comes out of this. It should be a building where all buses, including intercity, intracity and airport lines, converge; where airline ticket sales and baggage handling are consummated. I guess we can't have a railroad, but everything else in the transport line should have a central terminal here in a good location. Let's plug for that.

WE'RE told we should be worried about reports the Russians are considering attacking Red China's atomic development centers.

I'm worried, but I would rather see the Russkies attack there than certain other places I can think of.

Nor would it be devastating to know that the Red Chinese no longer have atomic capabilities. Let's not hope anything starts, but if it does, we might as well look at some advantages for us — for a change.

JACQUES-YVES COUSTEAU — HONORED GUEST

Banquet to Honor World-Famed Oceanographer

Clubs Slate Cousteau Fete

Oceanographer Jacques-Yves Cousteau, recently retained consultant to the Museum of the Sea aboard the Queen Mary, will be honored Sept. 30 in a dinner meeting at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Sponsors of the "Evening with Jacques Cousteau" are the Museums and the Docents, affiliated with the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles, and the Long Beach Regional Arts Council. The event is coordinated by the Junior League of Long Beach.

Attendance at the 7:30 p.m. dinner is limited to 850 and is by invitation from the sponsoring groups. The program will conclude with an address by Cousteau, "The Conquest of the Sea — a Race Against Time."

The honoree, who is serving as chief planner and designer of the Museum of the Sea, is a retired French navy captain who earned fame as the co-inventor of the aquaqua, as head of France's underwater research center, and as an author and pioneer in underwater photography.

Master of ceremonies for the program will be J. Howard Edgerton of Los Angeles, chairman of the board of trustees of the California Museum Foundation, which is developing the Museum of the Sea. Samuel C. Cameron of Long Beach, first vice president of the foundation, is honorary chairman.

Guppy Show Was a Little Bit Fishy

The whole thing was more than a little fishy.

But nobody cared.

What else would you expect at the Southern California International Guppy Show?

To be sure, fish were there. Promoters of the show, held Sunday in Edgewater Hyatt House, said some 3,000 guppies comprised 430 entries, with some entries including groups.

THE EXHIBIT, followed by an auction, was arranged by Southern California Guppy Association, which meets regularly in the Paramount Community Center. Members billed the weekend exhibit as the first "international" one.

International it was: Guppies were shipped from not only all over the United States but also from Austria, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, England and Singapore.

The entries swam quietly in a large number of individual bowls and in tanks — their individual, fascinating colors attracting the eye of first one, then another of an estimated 1,400 visitors.

GUPPIES entered by five members of the local group won first place awards during judging for size, color and overall proportion. One best-of-show went to a Californian and two others went to Eastern entrants.

Local winners were Rick and Tony Stube, of Long Beach, with a joint entry; Miss Helen Bishop, of Long Beach; Andy Anderson, of Lakewood, and Lee Paulin, of Anaheim. Rick Stube also won a first for an entry.

WE'RE told we should be worried about reports the Russians are considering attacking Red China's atomic development centers.

Nor would it be devastating to know that the Red Chinese no longer have atomic capabilities. Let's not hope anything starts, but if it does, we might as well look at some advantages for us — for a change.

Rubbish WILL Be Collected

Even though Labor Day was meant to be labor-free, Long Beach rubbish collection crews will make their normal rounds down the city's streets and alleys today, city officials say.

Young Marine Gets DFC for Rescue in Viet

Marine Cpl. Dean Hoalst was presented the Distinguished Flying Cross at Los Alamitos Marine Air Station Sunday during ceremonies honoring the 21-year-old helicopter crew chief's heroism in Vietnam.

Col. Harry G. Robinson, Marine Air Group 46 commander, made the award to Hoalst, of Battle Mountain, Nev.

The DFC is the service's fourth highest medal for combat action.

Hoalst's citation stated the action for which he was honored took place Jan. 28 while he was assigned to aid in medical evacuation of several Marines who had been injured when they entered a heavily-mined area on a hill in South Vietnam.

"With the possibility of detonating additional mines, the helicopter was unable to land near the casualties and it was decided to attempt a hoist extraction... despite the fact the hoist could be lowered but not raised," the citation stated.

"USING THE INTERCOM RADIO, Cpl. Hoalst skillfully guided the pilot into a hovering position about 25 feet over the minefield, and, leaning out of the helicopter cabin, operated the hoist, simultaneously continuing to provide assistance to the pilot whose vision was blocked by the slope of the hill," Marine spokesman said.

Hoalst continued the operation until all the wounded had been airlifted to a safe landing zone about 400 yards from the deadly minefield.

One of the Marines was having difficulty breathing, and Hoalst administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation while the wounded man was being airlifted.

Sex is dirty from Birch Society mud

ANAHEIM, a pleasant and forward-looking city, has become a nationwide target for the opponents of sex education. The more extreme of these enemies of Anaheim say that the city has become a cesspool of juvenile immorality because of the school district's program. What nonsense!

The most strident of the critics are based in Belmont, Mass., home of the John Birch Society. It is obvious to the most casual visitor to Anaheim that the cries of juvenile misconduct must come from such a distance. Life in Disneyland's suburb is about as spicy as marshmallow whip. By all measurements, Anaheim teen-agers are among the best-behaved in the state.

ANAHEIM SCHOOL district's course in sex education and information has been widely acclaimed by educators since it was started in 1965. There was 99 per cent participation by students, and little parental disapproval. The mud started to fly after publication of an attack on all such programs in the Birch Society's bulletin in January, 1969.

There are reasonable grounds for differences about the content

A child's life lies in hands of the driver

SCHOOL starts soon.

Every adult has the duty to see that children get to and from school safely.

Parents should make sure that little ones are well trained for crossing streets and staying out of the stream of traffic. This is especially important for beginners. Going to school is for them a big and frightening change.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The donnybrook

EDITOR:

The latest donnybrook involving the Los Angeles "Free Press" serves to vividly illustrate the hypocrisy which infests the journalistic profession.

For certain, the "Free Press" was irresponsible in the manner which it chose to enforce its point (printing names, addresses of narcotics agents). I agree in principle with its platform against secret police. However, the method used was nothing less than sensationalistic.

However, the reporting of the incident by a great portion of the news media was likewise sensationalistic and devoid of journalistic ethics. Specifically, Tom Reddin attacked the story with the wild-eyed, frothing-at-the-mouth fervor which is the stereotype of the political ultra conservative.

I do not criticize the portion which was clearly labeled, Editorial, but the segment which is supposedly restricted to honest reporting. There was little, if any, difference on the Tom Reddin news.

His Same-Think compatriots, George Putnam and Bill Johns have, in times past, illustrated similar journalistic distortions designed to emphasize their own viewpoints.

I wonder why there is such immediate reaction to the irresponsible action of one very bad newspaper, and such widespread acceptance of like pseudo-reporting by those of the opposite political wing?

Why are the Eldridge Cleavers and Rap Browns considered corruptors of the American Dream, while the Rev. Carl McIntires and Billy James Hargis are placed on pedestals as defenders of same? In truth, both are the products of a type of sickness. They are the crusaders for the extremist un-truth, and represent the big of sex education courses, particularly in the elementary grades. The Birch Society's bulletin disregarded them. It found that sex education was — you must have guessed it by now — part of "a Communist design." The bulletin called for "intensive, angry and determined" opposition to all sex education courses.

THE KEY WORD there is angry. Anger distinguishes virtually every Birch argument. Anger leads to extreme and untrue statements which envenom community relations and undermine community institutions.

Anaheim School Supt. Paul Cook described the impact of such tactics in his community in a recent national magazine. He said: "The results of all this go far beyond sex education. You don't turn off hatred just like that. It spreads and spreads. People in the community have stopped talking to each other. People come to school-board meetings now and question our textbooks on other subjects. Where will it all stop?"

It will stop when the Birch Society forgoes scare tactics.

It will stop when extremists stop mongering humbug and falsehood.

It will stop when the average citizen insists on facts and expert testimony — from both sides in an argument.

Until then, the children may have to depend on their peers at the playground for sex instruction. Did you ever wonder where they get their information?

They're likely to lose their heads and run into the street.

PARENTS OF bicyclists need to make sure their youngsters know the rules of bicycle safety.

And everyone driving a car must practice extra caution. Children sometimes do unpredictable things like darting out from between parked cars. A motorist who hits one of them might not be to blame — but he would carry a darkness in his soul for the rest of his life.

Every year nearly 4,000 children between 5 and 14 are killed in accidents involving motor vehicles. Only through the utmost caution can this tragic figure be reduced.

gest threat to our country's freedom. Oh, Mr. Orwell, what truth is evident in your crystal ball!

L.B. needs civic pride

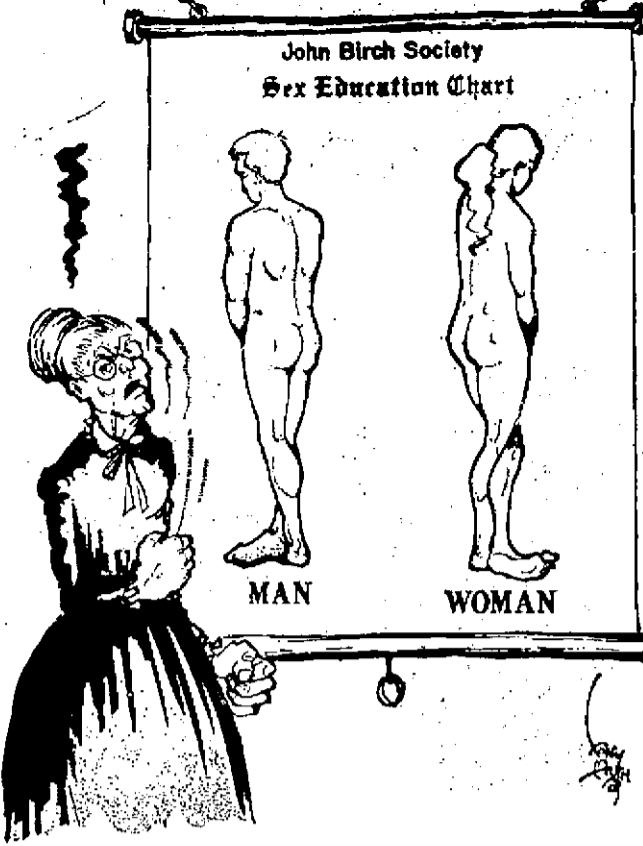

EDITOR:

Your newspapers' lead editorial of Wednesday, August 20, with the heading "Lindsay and New York Deserve Each Other," is, to say the least, wholly unintelligent and more than presumptuous. Why this waste of editorial space.

How much better had the space been utilized had the writer of that editorial struck out at the lack of city pride here in Long Beach. As thousands of residents here know, a team of Long Beach girl swimmers, returned home victorious from Europe after having won many contests in competition with the finest aquatic representatives from dozens of other nations. Tens of thousands of persons attending these meets cheered our Long Beach girls to the rafters. Their accomplishments in tough rivalry were detailed in a fine article by your own Hank Hollingsworth.

The magnificent group of girls who range in age from 11 to 22 received plaudits in dozens of countries. How were they received here in Long Beach when they returned? In the shabbiest of fashions, that's how! They were taken to City Hall, where they were introduced to our esteemed mayor, who greeted them and posed for photos in his usual grinning manner. Anything else? No!

Tax reform scares universities

By JAMES RESTON

New York Times Service

A quiet struggle of great significance is going on behind the scenes these days between the heads of American universities and key administration and congressional leaders over the tax-reform bill already passed by the House.

The main issue for the universities — and all other institutions that depend on charitable contributions — is that the House reform bill sharply limits the income tax deductions a taxpayer may take by donating appreciated property and particularly securities to universities.

Under the present law, a taxpayer may give to a university, school, church, or other such institution securities with say a present market value of $1,000 and claim the entire $1,000 as a deduction, even though he may have paid only $100 for the same securities 10 years ago.

THE HOUSE tax-reform bill is highly complicated — which is one reason why the controversy is not widely understood — but the effect of it is to reduce sharply the deduction the donor can take on his income tax and thus discourage donations to private institutions.

In the opinion of university administrators and fundraisers, it is precisely this tax incentive of deducting the full market value of appreciated securities that is responsible for the immense flow of private giving in recent years.

For example, in the years 1965-68, the market value of securities donated by individuals to Yale University amounted to $33,007,890, or 65 per cent of the total gifts from individuals during this period. In 1968-69, Harvard received $15,900,000 or 68 per cent, and MIT in '68-69, $2,170,000, or 70 per cent.

Columbia University, which is now in the midst of a major fund raising drive to deal with its serious financial problems, received $2,658,000 in security donations in 1966, $3,178,000 in 1967, and $6,038,000 in 1968, and it is still in deep trouble.

ACCORDINGLY, while the universities, the Congress and the Treasury Department have been quiet recently, college administrators have been pressing undersecretary of the Treasury Charles V. Walker, Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Wilbur Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, to consider the consequences of voting the present tax reform bill into law.

They are making these points:

1. The larger gift of appreciated securities made under the reform bill the less in percentage terms will be allowed as a deduction.

2. The larger such a gift, the less the donor will be allowed to claim by way of other deductions.

3. The fund raiser would have no way of telling the prospective donor what his gift would cost him until the end of the tax year, and many millions of dollars in outstanding pledges for the future would be put in doubt under the new tax law.

4. Finally, the cost of donating securities would not only rise and reduce the flow of private charity, but this in turn would make universities all the more dependent on public funds and might even threaten their autonomy.

The inflationary spiral, and the economic demands of the cities have produced a tax revolt, and this is being directed particularly against those citizens of great wealth who have been escaping income tax through donations to private institutions.

Call for footprints on national moon

I HAVE ALWAYS believed that politics was America's native genius. Americans, traditionally, share a basic confidence in their own political judgment and ability and in the efficacy of the political process as a whole. Those of our citizens unwilling or unable to participate in the politics of public office usually participate enthusiastically in the demanding number of people resist efforts to reach governmental goals simply because they are set by politicians.

The outstanding exception to this is the recent landing on the moon. The goal of reaching the moon in this decade was set by President Kennedy, and from the beginning it had wide popular support. It appealed to our national pride, our sense of adventure and curiosity.

It in no way diminishes the achievement to observe that a landing on the moon is a clearcut, readily understandable goal notwithstanding the complexity of the task of reaching it. Either our astronaut takes that "small step for man" or he does not. The footprints on the surface of the moon may not be permanent, but they are definite testimony to man's presence there. We can all be sure that the goal was reached.

This is far from the case with other national goals which should have as much popular support. An end to hunger, full employment, the ability to get a college education for all—these would seem to be clearcut objectives, but they are, in fact, aggravatingly elusive. There are no footprints to testify to success. There can be no anticipated single moment of victory to sustain us over the long haul.

PRESIDENT NIXON has offered a promising welfare reform proposal. So far, response has been favorable. Everyone is eager to replace the present demeaning, unfair and inefficient system. But the program may also tax the patience of many people. It will, for example, mean that nearly two and one half million more families will be added to the welfare rolls right away, and that fact isn't going to please anybody.

What is needed with programs like this is something of the same sense of participation and national pride we feel with the landing of our astronauts on the moon. I think we have ample reason for pride in ourselves for recognizing the reality of our social problems and mobilizing our resources to solve them. Let our footprints on the moon be one less hungry child, one father restored to the dignity of a useful job, one more family secure in a decent home.

WE CAN NO LONGER assume that the task of political leadership is simply to enunciate goals with confidence that people will share in the belief that the goals are necessary and desirable. Indeed, an increasing number of people resist efforts to reach governmental goals simply because they are set by politicians.

That sort of thing has happened before in this town. The voters had a chance to save about $800,000 by consolidating tax assessment services with the county, and voted it down although it had been urged by the best authorities on municipal government. So we're still wasting all that money every year. That, too, was the result of a hare-brained scare campaign that threatened "loss of home rule."

In the front rank of fluoridation opponents are elderly people who haven't had any teeth for years and don't much care if anyone else does, and some economic conservatives who raise the valid point that tax payers should not have to spend money to fluoridate their lawns and cars.

THAT OLD DEVIL water fluoridation has reared its healthy head in Long Beach again, and once again the City Council has fled from it in terror. If there is anything the councilmen fear more than a torpedo up Queen Mary's bottom, it is the necessity for a decision on fluoridation of the city's water supply.

To a medical man, it matters that fluoridation has been endorsed and urged — even pleaded for — by all the major medical and dental associations. It should matter to any rational man. But it may not matter to a politician, because he must concern himself with matters other than the dental health of children. Would he like to see the city's children with 78 per cent fewer cavities and then get 78 per cent fewer votes in the next election? Such a silly question!

WHEN THE Harbor Dental Society last week suggested that the Long Beach City Council reconsider fluoridation, the councilmen fell back to a safe position behind the Barricades of Democracy. They pointed out that fluoridation failed by 10,000 votes when it was made a ballot issue in 1957. That was when a local man, now dead, mounted a massive and expensive attack on fluoridation while a couple of ultra-conservative groups claimed that fluorides were "poison" and part of a "communist brain-washing plot." The difference between tooth-brushing and brain-washing was not clear to some Long Beach voters.

The oddball arguments have been knocked down in the past 12 years, and it would seem that the City Council could display a minimal amount of guts with maximal sense and do what it is legally empowered to do: put some fluoride in the water and save some children's teeth.

Lakewood Rests Easy

They also symbolize, Strohman says, the prevention and repression of crime.

CITIZENS WHO LIVE in Lakewood and five other communities in the 35-square-mile territory served by Strohman's deputies see those symbols every day. And they feel safer because they know their "chief of police" — Strohman — is on the job.

Sheriff's protection is provided under the noted Lakewood Plan, through which incorporated cities contract with the county for law enforcement. It's not a system superimposed on them by outside professionals — it's personal.

Every telephone caller who demands to speak to Strohman is accommodated. Every service club, school, church group and citizens' organization wanting a better idea of how the sheriff's office works and what it offers them can book Strohman or one of his aides as a speaker.

"I believe in being available, close to the community. I attend Lakewood City Council meetings, keep close rapport with city officials. The people know me. I know them. We get along well."

At least three nights each week Strohman is away from his home in La Mirada on sheriff's department "image" business. He and Pitchess are conscious of image, and they work hard to improve on an already good one.

"We have major problems in law enforcement," Strohman says, "We are in a minority group — in a ghetto of tan and blue uniforms. We need the public's help, trust and respect. We can't do the job by ourselves."

Strohman doesn't wave the flag, but he cherishes it. And his faith in the family, the church and the school as bulwarks of society is something he grew up with — part of the man.

He was born in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, a community of 5,000 persons. He worked on farms, played high school football, went to church and socialized to the limit available in a typical small town in the Midwest.

HE WAS A GOOD STUDENT and an excellent football player. The combination of brains and brawn won him a football scholarship to Iowa State. His gridiron career as a defensive lineman was interrupted by Army infantry service in Korea. He served with the Seventh "Hour-glass" Division, and the line which he hit hard was the Yalu River — the point at which the Red Chinese started driving the GIs back through the snow to their own goal line.

He saw a lot of blood and gore in Korea, but like his war against crime as a sheriff's officer, he won't talk about it.

"Sea stories (blood and guts) are for 11:30 at night when you're having a drink with your buddies," he says. And that's that.

After Korea he returned to Iowa State for four quarters, picked up his degree and headed for California. He had an ambition to become a polygraph expert, but he discovered courses in lie detection were open only to law enforcement officers.

He solved that problem by signing on with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department in 1955.

"I had so much fun being a cop that I decided to forego the lie detection business and concentrate on a career with the sheriff's office.

"I SERVED downtown until July 1956, when I was assigned as a patrol deputy at Norwalk substation. We served an area from the Whittier hills to Seal Beach, and Lakewood was included in it.

"The Norwalk station was split in 1959, and Lakewood — the first contract city for sheriff's protection — got half. I went to Lakewood as watch deputy and got promoted to sergeant 10 months later."

Strohman had to discipline himself when he made sergeant. "Every time we got a call on a really good case I had to resist the impulse to leap over the front desk and race out to the scene. It's like a city editor who wishes he were going out on the story instead of the reporter he has to assign."

Strohman was promoted to lieutenant at Norwalk in 1963 and became captain and took command at Lakewood in 1966. He bosses 223 police personnel and 28 civilian employees and keeps things lively around the station.

His relations with the press have fluctuated from great to toleration.

"Sometimes I can't give the press all it wants to know, and there are some yaps. But that's part of the give-and-take — the game cops and reporters play."

Reporters respect Strohman as a policeman who gives them a fair shake. When he holds back information, they know there's a good reason.

NOBODY CROWDS Paul Strohman, because he crowds back. He's the original immovable object.

Paul's brother, Russell, is a lieutenant in the department. His family includes wife Ramona, son Bruce, 12; daughter Rebecca, 10, and David, a 16-months-old chip off the old block.

Bruce Strohman is an AAU swimmer, and his dad sees a bright athletic future for him. "He played Pop Warner football, too. I coached," he says in the tone of a father who yearns for the time when there were enough hours for such things.

Strohman is an interesting mix of toughness and intellectualism:

He's the kind of educated cop who would never mistake Hochmuth's "The Deputy" as a play about the sheriff's department. He's also the kind of commander who would take one look at Mayberry's Barney Fife and give that ersatz deputy sidekick of Andy Griffith two minutes to get to the unemployment office.

Strohman's ambition is "to be the best cop I can." He's made it by a margin as wide as his shoulders.

"Every night when she says her prayers, my mother asks for the best things to happen to me. When she learned of my appointment as housekeeper for the White House, she commented — 'Do you think God overdid it this time?'"

So said Peggy Carey of Long Beach, who Wednesday will begin duties at the presidential mansion.

"The phone hasn't stopped ringing all day . . . I've listened to myself on news broadcasts . . . reporters have been meeting me everywhere, even the beauty shop."

U.S. No. 1 Housekeeper hails from Long Beach

The unassuming, 55-year-old White House appointee was seated at a shampoo bowl while the proprietor of Mr. Bailey's salon, 4612 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., styled her thick, red hair.

"I'm afraid I can't tell you what my salary will be since it hasn't been discussed yet."

"The White House knows what I earn with the Sheraton corporation, I imagine it will be the same. To tell the truth, I've not even thought about money."

Tomorrow Miss Carey will relinquish her 15-year-old Long Beach address when she flies to the nation's capital.

"I'll be looking for an apartment or house on my hours off the job," she smiled, "and will send for my mother, Julia Carey, as soon as I'm settled."

"I'm sorry to sound vague, but we'd not discussed details of my job. The news broke sooner than it should have. The White House advised me to talk with the press rather than create speculation over why we were being hush-hush."

Ostensibly, Miss Carey will direct a staff of 40 maids and housemen, supervise the cleaning, ordering of supplies, maintaining of furnishings and keeping of food accounts.

"No, I won't have any say-so in the menus — except to double-check lists. I've worked enough years with chefs to know one never interferes with their profession," said the veteran specialist in hotel management.

"I'm a mile scared and tremendously proud of my new job. I hope I will be able to apply my commercial experience to running the Presidential household as smoothly as possible."

While at the White House, Miss Carey will be on leave of absence as regional and supervisory housekeeper of Sheraton Corp. of America — a position that earned her the title of "flying housekeeper."

"I would check in unobtrusively at our hotels from Oregon to Southern Florida. Then I'd check out the upkeep of the establishment — don't forget, it's the woman traveling by herself who usually receives the least glamorous accommodations."

Miss Carey came by her appointment unexpectedly.

Several months ago she sent a copy of the Hilton hotel magazine to the White House. In it was an article on her efforts to launch a program at the Boston Statler-Hilton for housekeeping personnel.

"We dubbed the maids Yankee-Doodle Girls, the housemen as Minutemen.

They wore patriotic uniforms and the project turned out to be a successful morale booster for the least-recognized part of a hotel operation."

So interested was the White House that it wrote to Miss Carey asking if she would be interested in succeeding Mary Kallman as housekeeper. Mrs. Kallman resigned Aug. 1 to return to Texas after serving three years during the Johnson Administration.

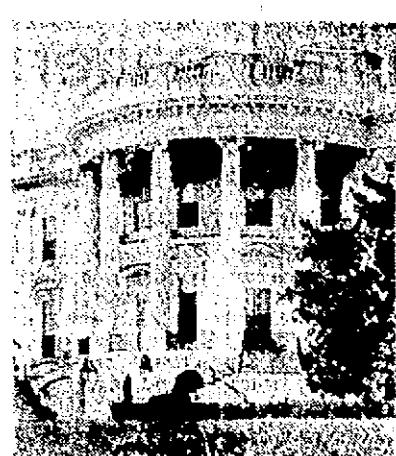

"I was undecided for several reasons: My doctors frown upon severe winter climates —

It will entail moving my mother from her Long Beach home and friends — I wasn't familiar with Washington, D.C."

"I was raised on her stories of how they cut a railroad through the wilderness. At age 14, I started helping my grandmother when she was pastry chef for the Ambassador East & West in Chicago.

"I just hope I can live up to the tradition."

Nevertheless, Mrs. Nixon's social secretary, Lucy Winchester, made an appointment with Miss Carey for an interview at the Century Plaza the night of the banquet honoring the astronauts.

Pint-size tots delight their quart-size benefactors

IT WAS A lilliputian lunch where the little ones from Long Beach Day Nursery North said "thank you" to the big ones responsible for the nursery's many new improvements.

Among those thanked were George Fountain, electrical work; Herb Hinchey and son, freshly painted walls; and Leo Schultz, brand new gold carpeting.

Libby, Jennifer and Fran, all 6-years-old, joined soon-to-leave Lisa, 8, in a share-in with Evelyn (Mrs. William Keeley, executive director, Mary (Mrs. James) Smith and H. A. Appleton, observing as an interested and generous Rotarian.

Some conversation between mini-minis and the quart-size people sitting at pint-size tables revealed: "Nursery school is fun because we can color in the morning and in the afternoon." "We have books." "I like broccoli and macaroni." "All the teachers are pretty." "We don't have to clean our plates in order to have ice cream." "Frank doesn't like anything." (He liked his lunch, every bite.)

Glasses of milk were raised in appreciation to members of the board: Mary (Mrs. William) Klingensmith, Louise (Mrs. Paul) McClaughry and Betty (Mrs. Wesley) Rollo.

WHEN JOHN W. Shainline, dean of students at Cal State Long Beach, and Constance Brandau were married Saturday, they included among their attendants her sons Dennis and Craig, and his children Leslie, Michael and Jan.

In addition to the increased size of the family, the Brandau-ry included two dogs, three cats, one monkey, two turtles and untold numbers of fish.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. George Hanawalt, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Strickler, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick (Dean Lois) Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Deeble and Mr. and Mrs. James Crosby were among the 200 guests who helped deplete the wedding cake and say Aloha to the Hawaii-bound newlyweds.

Marjorie Dougherty says: "There's nothing in the world like the U.S. post office," and she should know.

After numerous "round the world" travels including the most recent "far" trip that included Russia where she viewed apartments that rented for $6 a month and some fantastic fjording in Norway, Marjorie still is most enchanted with our "neither sleet or snow" men. Every last letter was filed according to date received and waiting neatly for her return.

She confesses she plans to ask the mailman to repeat the favor when she takes off on her British Isles jaunt soon.

IF ONE PARTY is good, two parties must be twice as good especially if you're Arlene and Chuck Lowery.

Party number one sent Eileen Harrington (Arlene's mother) and relatives Kitty and Mae McAuliffe, Albert Isler and Mae O'Donnell, winging on a month's tour of Europe.

Sixty-five guests, including Eileen's bridge partners for the past 25 years, gathered at a garden party to exchange travel tips and experiences.

It took a caravan to accomplish the getting-them-all-to-the-airport feat. With the gobs of baggage, numerous cameras and send-off memories, the fivesome nearly missed the plane.

To recover, the Lowerys hosted a "We Got Mother Off Without a Hitch Party" the following week.

The same menu (no leftovers despite comments) was repeated for Bev and John Thielen, Germaine and Mike Cullen, Barbara and Dick Hellman, John and Joy Berton and Gay and Bob McKernie.

And then the Lowerys left for a four-day recovery at Lake Casitas where Arlene discovered she had forgotten the coffee pot, frying pan and foam rubber fillers for the sleeping bags.

The beach was teky, the boys suffered wasp stings and not a fish took the bait . . . which was a good thing because there was no pan to fry them in.

The welcome-home-travelers party promises to be a quiet one.

ON WEDDING TRIPS

Solemn vows recited in weekend nuptial rites

Smith-Lee

In a double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon Elizabeth June Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Lee of Wilmington became the bride of David Richard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, 3611 Delta Ave., in Delta Avenue Baptist Church.

The new Mrs. Smith was attired in a floor length A-line gown of organza over dotted swiss. Long bishop sleeves and wattleau chapel train highlighted the Victorian style.

Nancy Cheryl Burke attended as maid of honor. Julie Maire Formby, Deborah Lee Thompson, Susan Pauline Morneau and Sharon Formby, flower girl, completed the entourage.

Kenneth Wayne Scurlock served as best man and Paul Lester Smith, brother of bridegroom, Samuel J. Lee Jr., brother of bride, and Jerry Daniel Benson seated guests. Danny Smith, brother of bridegroom, carried the rings.

The bride is a graduate of a dental assistant school in Long Beach. Her husband is an alumnus of Polytechnic High School and attended Long Beach City College.

After a buffet reception at the church the newlyweds departed for San Simeon and Carmel. They will reside in Long Beach.

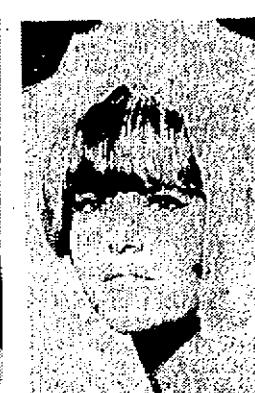

Christensen-Griffin

Planning to make their home in Long Beach are Mr. and Mrs. Jan Sewart Christensen (nee Coni Leigh Griffin) who were married Friday evening in St. Mathew's Catholic Church.

Among 125 guests witnessing the ceremony were

MRS. D. R. SMITH

MRS. JAN CHRISTENSEN

MRS. R. R. JULIAN

MRS. B. K. GUNNUFSON

Sunfield Ave., and Ronald Ralph Julian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Julian of Compton, who recited nuptial vows Saturday evening in Glad Tidings Church.

The bride wore a gown of alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls and chapel length train. She chose Mrs. P. J. Marra, sister of the bridegroom, to be her matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. David Smith and Mrs. Dennis Johnson. Melissa Smith and Tammy Farley were flower girls.

Robert Julian served as his brother's best man. Dale Koski and Lyn Kanasky seated 350 guests. Tracy Preston and Norman Mack carried the rings.

Mrs. Julian is a graduate of Mayfair High School. Her husband was graduated from Dominguez High School and Compton Junior College.

A reception honored the newlyweds following the ceremony.

Gunnufson-Barksdale

Aspen, Colo., will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Kent Gunnufson (nee Elizabeth Barksdale) who exchanged vows Saturday in St. Andrew

Methodist Church, Littleton, Colo.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leigh Barksdale of Littleton wore an ivory silk organza gown with angel satin banding. Venise lace flowers edged the neck, hem and chapel length train.

Mrs. Edward L. Brack attended as matron of honor while Barbara Goodman and Laura Locke were bridesmaids.

Brother of the bridegroom, Craig Gunnufson, served as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Gunnufson of Los Alamitos. Richard Dawson, Douglas Jones and John G. Barksdale, brother of bride, seated 200 guests.

A reception in the garden at the home of the bride's parents honored the newlyweds before they departed for a honeymoon trip to Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Kohler-Diver

Arden, Colo., will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Kent Gunnufson (nee Elizabeth Barksdale) who exchanged vows Saturday in St. Andrew

Mrs. M. J. Kohler

5307 Lorelei Ave., became the bride of Michael J. Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kohler of Houston, Tex., Saturday afternoon in St. Cyprian Catholic Church.

Marlene Diver was her sister's maid of honor, and Terry Kohler, brother of bridegroom, was best man.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony and the newlyweds left for a trip to Texas and Ohio.

Football fans in for biggest Milk Bowl game yet

In fine form for 22nd annual Milk Bowl Carnival are Jordan High seniors Donna Bonesteel, Doug Minz and Mike Lathrop. They'll be on the field of Veterans Memorial Stadium Sept. 17 after a 6:30 p.m. exhibition by the Marine Corps Drum and Bugle Team. A flag ceremony will be performed by the five high school bands before varsity football teams play at 25-minute intervals. Tickets will be on sale at 78 public schools and at the gate. Last year more than 18,000 spectators viewed the game sponsored by Long Beach Council of PTA. Proceeds provide dental, psychiatric and medical care and clothing to needy students.

Keeley-McDougall wed in Palos Verdes

In a double ring ceremony at Neighborhood Church, Palos Verdes Peninsula, Margo McDougall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. McDougall of Palos Verdes exchanged vows with Alan William Keeley, son of Dr. and Mrs. William E. Keeley, 5355 Harvey Way.

The bride was attired in a floor length A-line gown of ivory silk linen. Appliqued cotton lace bordered the sleeves and hemline.

Mrs. Harry M. Quinn attended as matron of honor while Mrs. H. Edward Benedict was bridesmaid.

Dr. Robert H. Keeley served as his brother's best man. Richard Hulcett and Donald S. McDougall, brother of bride, seated guests.

Mrs. Keeley is a graduate of California State College at Long Beach and attended St. Andrews University in Scotland. She received her M.A. from Claremont Graduate School and is teaching in Whittier.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanford University where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and also received his masters degree.

A reception was held at the La Venta Inn, Palos Verdes Peninsula, before the couple departed for Grand Teton, Wyo. They will make their home in Seal Beach.

DEAR ABBY

Divorce is not a 'disgrace'

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

stayed together as long as they did out of consideration for you. They need compassion, not criticism.

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter in your column from the man who named his parakeet "STUPID" because he couldn't get the bird to utter one word, I wondered if maybe the MAN wasn't stupid. Chances are he has himself a she-bird instead of a he-bird. And everyone knows that when it comes to parakeets, only the male talks. The females aren't good for anything, except maybe laying eggs. A MALE (of course)

DEAR MALE: What do you mean, "The females aren't good for anything, EXCEPT maybe laying eggs?" That strikes me as a function at least equal in importance to vocalizing. Typical masculine attitude. The female lays the eggs and the rooster does the crowing.

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet the following open letter could have been written by thousands of girls across the country. And I hope thousands of girls learn from it:

Dear "Friends,"

Remember me? I'm your old girl friend. The one you used to have so much fun with before you met "him." I'm the one you suddenly didn't have time for — the one you would call at the last minute and cancel your plans with because "he" called.

I'm the one who was never included in your party plans because I didn't have

I suggested a larger apartment with TWO bedrooms, frequent separate vacations, a trial separation — ANYTHING, but divorce. But they insist they have thought it over and this is what they both want. Abby, they have children and grandchildren who love and respect them. What can we tell people? How can parents disgrace their families that way? I would like your opinion.

THEIR DAUGHTER:

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your parents have a right to make their own decisions, for their own reasons, without loss of love or respect from their children and grandchildren. And if they choose to terminate their marriage after 44 years, where is the "disgrace"? Perhaps they

Quite often, in order to wage a successful defense, a defender must assume that his partner possesses a specific key card. Having made this assumption, he then proceeds as though it were a fact.

In the deal presented, West found himself in the above position. And he came up with the only play that could have defeated South's game contract.

North-South vulnerable. West deals.

East's leap to four clubs was preemptive in nature, and was intended to jam up the North-South bidding. But South, undaunted, stepped in with a four spade bid.

If he had been doubled, possibly he would have retreated to diamonds and ace of trumps were cashed.

West's king of clubs opening was ruffed by South, after which the king and ace of trumps were cashed.

When it was revealed that West had a sure trump winner, declarer started to run dummy's diamonds. The fourth diamond lead was ruffed by West.

FROM WEST'S point of view, if the four spade contract were beatable, East had to possess the ace of hearts. So West, in planning his defense, made the assumption that East had the heart ace.

But, to beat the contract, the defenders needed three heart tricks. If West led his nine of hearts, and South happened to have the 10, he would play low from dummy, and East would have to win the trick with his (presumed) ace.

The board's queen of hearts would now prevent the defenders from cashing three heart tricks.

West found the winning solution when he came up with the lead of the heart jack. If a low heart were played from dummy, the jack would win the trick, after which the defenders would cash the king and ace of hearts.

In practice, dummy's queen was played on the jack, East's ace taking the trick. A heart return now trapped South's 10-5, and West's remaining K-3 took the next two heart tricks.

PAT'S POINTERS

Knitted pattern creates mood

By PAT TREXLER

Here are two elegant, knitted afghans, each casting a different spell. One is lively, done in a tricolored pattern of chevron panels with a counterpoint of zig-zagging blackberry stitching.

The other is serene, done in a rhythmic repetition of the Indian cross stitch — one you'll surely want to add to your file of pattern stitches. Both are knitted all in one piece — no sewing strips together — on large circular needles, and are abundantly fringed on either end. Knitting worsted is used for both.

To obtain directions for making both afghans, send your request for Leaflet No. Au-31 with 35 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, Independent, Press-Telegram, P. O. Box 17835, Charlotte, N. C. 28211.

DEAR PAT: I have heard that there are several ways to block and would like your opinion on the preferred method. A discussion of this subject should be welcomed by all knitters. FRAN H., Greensboro, N. C.

DEAR FRAN: Personally, I do not feel that there is any one "correct" way to block, so I would rather describe several methods and let you select the one which best suits your needs.

Actually, blocking means different things to different people. Some experts will tell you always to pin the garment pieces to shape and steam them by holding a steam iron just above them, never letting the weight of the iron rest on the knitted fabric.

Others think that the garment should be completely put together and then pinned and steamed as described above. Properly done, on certain yarns, this is fine, but all too often the fibers can be damaged by careless use of the iron.

Garments made from 100 percent wool yarns can safely be blocked by the steam method, but watch out for the synthetics! Many of the new synthetic yarns are labeled "Needs no Blocking." In my opinion, they should be labeled "DO NOT BLOCK!"

The method I will describe is safe for all yarns, and, in my opinion, does a really good job.

You will not necessarily need a padded surface, but one firm enough to prevent the blocking pins from slipping and soft enough to stick pins in. I once found in my attic an old card table with a composition top that became my blocking table. A piece of sturdy corrugated cardboard would do.

YOU WILL NEED a clean cloth and some rust-proof pins. After the cloth is secured to the blocking table or board — or even to your carpet, if your sacroiliac can stand it — the knitted pieces are pinned at one-inch intervals, according to the exact finished measurements.

Now, fill a clean, empty window spray bottle with water, screw on its push button cap, and spray your knitting with a fine mist. With this little gadget, your knitting will be dampened evenly without becoming soaked.

In most cases, however, I just give the completed garment a bath, washing it by the method recommended for the type of yarn used. Or, you can put the finished pieces or garment between two wet bath towels, leaving them until they are thoroughly dampened. Then transfer to a dry towel, pat in shape and let dry.

Quilted cotton pads will protect your mattress and insure its long life. Choose an all-cotton mattress pad with quilting stitches that are closely spaced. Cotton pads are highly absorbent, a must for keeping a mattress fresh. And the closer the quilting pattern in a pad, the more durable it will be.

WILLS HELPS TOO

Singer's Turn to Be Hero

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

It's the first of September, traditionally the Dodgers' month to zoom. And Maury Wills, whose gone through a few splendid Septembers with the Dodgers, thinks this just might be another one.

"It's a hero a day," is the way Maury explained it Sunday afternoon at Dodger Stadium, after he'd peppered three base hits to help Bill Singer post his 17th victory, a 4-1 win over Philadelphia for the Dodgers' third win in a row and fifth in their last six starts. The Dodgers now reside only a half game away

DODGERS OF DAY
BILL SINGER hurled a six-hitter and MAURY WILLS hammered three hits Dodgers' 4-1 victory over Philadelphia.

from the lead in the National League's Western Division circus.

"It seems like everyone gets hot at a different time," smiled the guy they call Mouse. "Willie Davis is hotter 'n a firecracker right now. Before that Jim Lefebvre had a few hot days, and Bill Sudakis was hot and so was Teddy Sizemore. When Manny Mota and myself came to the club we contributed. And before we got here I know Andy Kosco had a great streak.

"We're not like Cincinnati where it seems all those guys are hot all the time. We have the pitching, though. It's consistently good. So all we have to do is have somebody hot and we're okay."

"Like now, with Willie. He's carried the club the last few weeks. If he cools off someone else will get hot."

Willie is showing no sign of cooling. Davis singled sharply to center in the fourth inning, running his hitting streak to 28 games in a row — one shy of the Dodgers' all-time record set 43 years ago by Zack Wheat.

And Willie D., back to .318 will have a chance to match it this afternoon when the Dodgers open a big three-game set with those amazin' Mets.

Sunday it was the consistent pitching Wills was talking about as well as Maury's sharp bat and Willie Crawford's first home run in six weeks.

Singer, pitching with the best control he's had in some time, limited the Phillies to a half dozen hits. He also whiffed Richie Allen the first two times he appeared, running Richie's string of strikeouts to six before he finally managed to connect.

Crawford, the powerful outfielder who just about everyone connected with the Dodgers feels one day will be a super star, lined his ninth homer into the right field seats in the second.

And Sizemore, the Dodgers' Rookie of the Year candidate, doubled to open the third and scored on the first of Wills' three singles.

"Each day you get just one or two pitches to hit," smiled young Teddy, his average now at .272, "and those are the pitches you've got to hit."

Singer, in the midst of his finest season in the bigs, blanked the Phils until the seventh, finally surrendered a run in the eighth and then squirmed out of a tight spot in the ninth.

"Yeah, I was a little concerned," Bullet Bill admitted when asked about the ninth. John Briggs had doubled and Singer went to 3-1 on Allen before getting him to ground out.

"You can say all you want to about Richie," Singer went on, "but he's great hitter. When he swings that 40 ounce bat of his it's just one big blur."

Singer, who could have 21 or 22 wins by now with any luck at all, gave catcher Tom Haller a bit of an assist.

"I was working fast the last few innings," smiled Diamond Bar's No. 1 resident, "and Tommy kept

Reggie's Seen Last of Good Pitches

The same thing that plagued Babe Ruth in his hey-day is now being experienced by Reggie Jackson. The Oakland A's slugger, who set such torrid home run pace through most of the season, is no longer getting the good pitches.

Opposing pitchers feel he is less of a threat by walking him than pitching to him.

He walked seven times in a doubleheader against Boston recently and three times in the no-hitter pitched early in August by Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles.

Jackson was even given a base on balls by Palmer in the ninth inning with nobody out. The Orioles had a big lead and the run wouldn't have meant much even if Reggie would have scored — but a hit would have ruined the whole night for the Baltimore hurler.

"If I hit every good pitch I got, I probably could hit 90 home runs a year," Jackson says.

But he quickly adds, "but nobody is going to do that. Thus it makes it even harder when they quit giving you many good pitches."

JACKSON ENTERS SEPTEMBER with 45 home runs and 32 games left in which to collect 15 more homers to equal Babe Ruth's record of 60 and 16 to reach Roger Maris' "asterisk" mark of 61.

It's still possible, but highly improbable that Reggie will be able to do it.

In fact, there is the probability now that he might not even salvage the home run crown. Frank Howard of Washington moved to within three of Reggie Sunday when he hammered out his 42nd.

Jackson is under even greater pressure than keeping up his home run pace because the A's need his hitting now more than ever in the stretch drive of the American League's Western Division title race.

Home run hitters, of course, are more effective when they are surrounded by other dangerous hitters so that opposing hurlers can't "pitch around them." Ruth had several, including Lou Gehrig, and Maris had Mickey Mantle among others.

FOR AWHILE, THE HEART OF THE OAKLAND batting order was tearing up the opposition, thus helping Jackson since rivals had to pitch to him. But Rick Monday is on the shelf with a broken hand suffered when hit by a pitch, and Dan Ayers and Sal Bando have tailed off a bit. This has made it easier for rival pitchers to handle Reggie.

Jackson, who had 41 home runs through July and appeared as if he would be able to sustain his threat to the Ruth and Maris marks. But he has hit only four home runs since August 5 and, ironically, three of them have come against the Baltimore Orioles.

Jackson set a faster pace than both Ruth and Maris until mid-August. Maris got his 45th on Aug. 17 in game No. 117. Roger entered September with 52 and earned his "asterisk" in the record book by hitting nine in the last 31 days of the season, collecting No. 61 on Oct. 1 in the 163rd game (162 plus one tie).

Ruth had only 43 home runs going into September; blasted No. 44 in game No. 128 on Sept. 2, and his 45th on the 6th. He then ripped out 15 in the next 24 days for his total of 60.

Pancho Shows He Can Still Perform

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Aging Pancho Gonzales, his vision bad, his reflexes dulled and his nerves shaken but still ablaze with his old-time fire, rallied for a five-set victory over bearded Torben Ulrich of Denmark Sunday and put new life in the $137,000 U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The 41-year-old warrior from Los Angeles, down two sets to one and broken in the third game of the fourth, appeared beaten before he raised himself to a dramatic 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6, 6-2 victory.

A crowd of more than 8,000, watching the late match in humid, sticky weather, gave Pancho a rousing ovation.

Gonzales advanced with an unbroken phalanx of tough contract pros as the touring troupers took command.

Then Pancho turned tiger. Racing over the court like a new man, he paused Hitting flashes of brilliance, Gonzales at times in the early sets had lapses in which he looked like a mere shadow of the former king of the pros.

Obviously nervous and wiping sweat from his face with quick gestures, he missed easy volleys and overshot the backline repeatedly on the easiest assignments.

The temperamental Californian tossed his racket in disgust and frequently stopped in the middle of the court to let out an unhappy yell of anguish.

The crowd loved it.

Almost everyone in the gallery, however, was saying, "Poor Pancho" until the old pro broke Ulrich in the 14th game of the fourth set at love to level the match.

Then Pancho turned tiger. Racing over the court like a new man, he paused on the pressure, grabbing a quick 2-0 lead with a service break. Rallies were many and exciting as the crowd stayed glued to their seats for the finish.

The fighting Gonzales broke Ulrich three times in the final set, sending placements past the Dane's racket, smashing and volleying like the Mexican-American who won his first championship on this same center court 21 years ago.

In the last game, Pancho had Ulrich down love-40 on service, and after losing two points, clinched the match with a searing forehand.

The Gonzales victory sent eight contract pros into the round of 16, giving them a total of 13 of the 16 surviving places.

Ulrich, a superbly-conditioned veteran of 40 who

Lunn Fires 66 to Move Out of Logjam Into Tourney Lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — Bob Lunn, big and bland, broke out of a multiple-man logjam Sunday with a sparkling, five-under-par 66 Sunday and barged into the third-round lead in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

Lunn, a burly, 6-foot-3, 215-pounder who looks more like a professional linebacker than a golfer, had a 54-hole score of 201, 12 under par on the 6,583-yard, par-72 Wethersfield Country Club course.

Lunn, 24 and a pro since he was 18, held a one-stroke lead over veteran Howie Johnson and dangerous Davey Hill, tied at 202. Johnson vaulted past 49 players with a brilliant, eight-under-par 63, while Hill, winner of three tournaments this year, had a 66.

Dave Stockton was in with a 67 for 203, 10 under and tied for fourth with former Masters champion Gay Brewer, the second round leader who fashioned a 68.

Tied at 204 are Deane Beman, 65, and R.H. Sikes, 67.

The group at 205, four strokes off the pace, included Jim Colbert, 67, Hal Underwood, 67, rookie Randy Wolff, 68, Lee Trevino, 68, and Jack Nicklaus, who slipped a bit to 69.

Lee Elder, who had a 65, was one of a large group at 206 with veteran Dan Sikes, 67, and defending champion Billy Casper in the group at 208.

Lunn, who scored his first four triumphs with consecutive victories in the Memphis Open and Atlanta automatically decrease or increase the effective loft of the clubface at the point of impact.

Play the ball back in your stance, and the shot will fly lower than normal (dashed line in illustration). Play it forward, and the ball will rise sharply (dotted line).

Try this with a 6-iron the next time you practice. You just might experience your first step towards becoming a truly advanced player.

70,000 Expected for Southern 500 Today

DARLINGTON, S.C. (UPI) — Stock car racing madness, major league style, returns to its birthplace at Darlington raceway today and at least 70,000 followers are expected to witness the spectacle.

Generous portions of money and prestige ride on the outcome of the 20th running of the Southern 500, grandparent of all big time races in a sport that over the years has found a permanent home in Dixie.

There is a $108,000 purse that will be divided after 500 of the most demanding miles a human will ever drive. Almost $21,000 plus lap money will go to the winner, but he'll also take home the sports most revered trophy.

"There isn't a driver here who wouldn't rather win the Southern 500 than any other race on the schedule," said front row starter Cale Yarborough who won last year. "The other speedways carry good money, but not the prestige."

Yarborough and at least six other drivers, all in factory-backed cars, are rated about equal favorites once the big bore machines get underway at 12 noon.

The others are top money winner Lee Roy Yarborough, David Pearson, Richard Petty, Buddy Baker, Donnie Allison and Bobby Allison.

McLaren Takes Can-Am; Mario Out on Pace Lap

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (UPI) — Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme, driving a pair of identical McLaren Chevrolets, escaped the troubles that wiped out all serious competition Sunday to roll to another 1-2 finish in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup road racing series.

McLaren, who had won two of the previous five races, edged his New Zealand teammate, Hulme, by two car lengths — less than a second — to tie for the series driving lead.

Both he and Hulme have 90 points with five races to go.

McLaren averaged a record 107.479 miles per hour for the 200 miles and turned a track record 112.15 miles per hour on one lap. He also established a speed track record, reaching 171.8 miles per hour on the eight-tenths of a mile straightsaway.

He won $12,750 of the $75,000 purse and Hulme took another $1,500.

Mario Andretti, John Surtees, Jim Clark and Chris Amon were due to be the top challengers to the McLaren crew, but all were forced from the race with car troubles. Andretti before the pace lap was completed.

The exciting, breathtaking racing will begin at 12 noon with qualifications getting underway at 9:30 a.m.

Chafe Greets Vikings, Including 17 Veterans

By DAVE DANIEL.

Holidays such as Labor Day are for relaxation, rest and enjoyment.

Try to tell that to 85 members of the Long Beach City College football team.

The Vikings begin practice today with two-a-day drills on tap for the next two weeks until school opens Sept. 15. The first game is played Sept. 20.

Head coach Paul Chafe, beginning his fourth year at the helm of the Vikings, can count only 17 lettermen from last year's 6-2-1 edition. Only seven of those were starters and only one of the seven — Ed Giles — was on offense.

The job that is most up for grabs is that of quarterback as Chafe must search for a replacement for all-America Dennis Dummit, who set records in every passing category last year.

Four prospects checked out equipment last week, but all are newcomers to LBCC, including freshmen John Edwards of Jordan, Steve Draucker of Wilson and Bob Rapp of Poly.

The fourth is sophomore Terry Widel, a transfer from Louisiana State University who also prepped in the South but brings impressive credentials.

Dummit's job last year was made easy by three receivers — Dale Didur, Rick Wilkes and Denny Mayfield. The trio caught 108 passes between them.

That means that a new quarterback will be looking for a new receiver with Jordan's all-City standout Dennis Brimhall the best of a mostly freshman crop.

Preliminary outlooks in other areas are good.

The defensive secondary of coach Glen McFarland has four lettermen returning as well as an eager crop of freshmen and defensive linemen and linebackers are good and plentiful indicating a strong defensive year.

The offensive linemen have several veterans, but no starters, from the 1968 team and this could be the most pleasant surprise as a unit of the entire team.

The Vikings will work from 9-11 each morning and from 5-7 in the evening with a controlled scrimmage on tap Saturday in Thousand Oaks against Cal Lutheran College.

SAINTS GRIDDERS BEGIN PRACTICE

St. Anthony High's football team gets a jump on the rest of the Long Beach schools today when the Saints open two-a-day contact drills at Clark Ave. Field.

The Saints were given an OK by the CIF office to start one day earlier along with Beverly Hills since the two schools scrimmage each other Sept. 12. Many of the Normans will observe the Jewish Rosh Hashana on the 13th. Tom Carroll begins his ninth year at St. Anthony and hopes to see the club rebound from a disappointing 1-8 effort last season in its initial Angels League campaign.

Moore League schools begin workouts Tuesday after a week of conditioning drills.

Speed: Way of Life for L.B. Race King

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — It's his love for speed and ingenuity that keeps Mickey Thompson going.

The California speedster credited with holding nearly 500 national and international endurance records flew into town for the National Hot Rod Assn's National Championships, seeking more honors on drag race strips.

Later this year he plans to take another crack at the overland records on Bonneville's salt flats and December he'll spend in Australia — drag racing.

And finally, he wants another crack at the Indianapolis "500," the world's richest auto race, but not until he feels cars equipped with stock block engines are equal in power to the racing plants of Ford and Offenhauser.

At 40, the speed king from Long Beach, Calif., is leaving most of the driving to his Hawaiian sidekick, Danny Ongals. Their latest project is a pair of Mach 1 Ford Mustangs which they have raced on drag strips throughout the country all year, winning more than 90 per cent of the events they entered.

"We've now raced in 39 states and that's the best any car has ever done," said Thompson, who is recognized as one of drag racing's foremost innovators. He started one of the first drag strips years ago at Long Beach and despite a myriad of business commitments decided to spend the Labor Day weekend at Indianapolis Raceway Park because he considers the Nationals the most competitive event in drag racing.

"In drag racing they let you use your inventive mind," said Thompson, who has introduced a number of innovations for the "500." "And did you know that attendance at drag racing surpasses other racing?"

"This is big business — $750 million worth in this country annually — and a good drag racing driver makes more than $100,000 a year."

Thompson, who described himself as the largest manufacturer of high-performance speed equipment — including engine components, wheels and tires — is a drag racing bug because "you can take your family car and go racing with it."

"There are classes for every type of car, from 25 horsepower on up," he said.

But he didn't hide his anxiety to get back into "500" competition, or to make another assault on Utah's salt flats.

"My goal is to hit 425 miles per hour on the flats, in both directions," he said. "Then I'll quit."

Vanderbilt Tire Guarantee

Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed for the life of the original tread, against manufacturing defects and workmanship, and against all failures from road hazards. If tire fails, we will — at our option — repair it at no cost, or in exchange for a new tire, charge only the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax. Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed against wear-out for the number of months specified. If tread wears out within the stated period, (less than 2/3") return the tire to any auto center selling Vanderbilt Tires. We will exchange it for a new tire, charging the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax, less a stated allowance. *Since no industry-wide system of standards exists, the representations as to "grade," "line," "level," or "quality" relate only to the private standard of the marketer (e.g. Vanderbilt Premium Grade).

wore his long hair in two plaits down to his shoulders and a white head band around his forehead, was near collapse at the end of the exhausting match. He limped badly and once took a nasty spill on the court.

In the upper bracket, completed Saturday, the non-pro survivors include Arthur Ashe Jr., the defending champion, the sensational Ilie Nastase of Romania and dark-horse Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif.

"Only Ashe has a chance to beat out the contract pros and he must be at his best every day the rest of the way," said Rod Laver of Australia, the top-seeded favorite bidding for his second grand slam.

Other winners in the men's division Sunday included three other Australians.

Second-seeded John Newcombe dropped the first set to hard-serving Pierre Barthes of France but rallied for a 6-8, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, victory. Third-seeded Tony Roche crushed Chilean Luis Ayala, now living in Puerto Rico, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Cuello, the pitcher whom Weaver cites as the key to Baltimore's improved fortunes this summer, was not the same hurler who faced the Angels twice before. His initial two starts against the Anaheims were complete games and he allowed only one run and 13 hits in 18 innings.

But he still leads the Orioles' pitching staff in four categories: wins (19), complete games (15), strikeouts (147) and innings pitched (238). His victory Sunday was his 19th, topping his previous personal high by three, and only De-coming out to slow me down.

"But my control was good today. I've had the stuff but now I've got to the point where I can control it."

Two years ago Singer won 10 games the last half of the season and last year he nailed seven.

"I've always seemed to have a good finish," he said, "and I sure hope this year is no different."

If it's as Wills says it'll be it might be a grand finish indeed.

DODGER POINTS: The Angels' Jeff Johnson (1-1) will meet the Senators in a holiday double-header today and then play in the All-Star game on Saturday. Johnson, who has just completed his first year in the Army Reserves, is off to a 1-1 start in the minors. The Angels' Mike Marshall (1-1) and the Senators' Mike Murphy (1-1) will meet in the All-Star game.

Johnson, 26, has a 1-1 record in 10 starts this season. He has given up 11 runs and 10 walks in 54 2/3 innings. His ERA is 3.60. Johnson's record in 1967 was 10-12, 3.53. Toughest Kaweah Bar Test Due in Go Man Go

After 19 starts and 16 victories with Bobby Adair in the saddle, Kaweah Bar will have Charlie Smith on his back when he tackles eight swift foes in the $25,000 Go Man Go tonight at Los Alamitos.

No other rider but Adair has ever ridden the 1968 "Horse of the Year," so there'll be plenty of pressure on former riding champ Smith as Kaweah Bar faces the toughest field of his career in the Go Man Go.

Not only that, the three-year-old Alamitos Bar palomino will be carrying high weight of 130 pounds, the most of his career. He carried 128 pounds in easily winning the $6,000 Hard Twist Aug. 23, that being his highest impost until tonight.

In less than two years of racing, Kaweah Bar has earned $133,751 on his way to becoming one of the greatest quarter horses in racing history.

Among his many achievements on a race track, the two that probably stand out the most are his 17.5 clocking in the $30,000 Pomona Futurity last year, and being one of only three quarter horses to be acclaimed "world champion" as a two year old. The other two so honored were Go Man Go in 1965 and Laico Bird in 1967.

Adair will be aboard the outstanding mare Go De-russa Go in the race named for her famous sire, and she'll tote second high weight of 124. She's defending champion in this evening's feature, having won the Go Man Go a year ago. In fact, five of the last six editions of the Go Man Go have been taken by his offspring.

Rounding out the field for the 100-yard event are Real Charger, Witch Chic, Cinder Leo, Top Rockette, Double Dibs, Ellaboo and Barco Rocket.

Double Dibs is the only horse to defeat Kaweah Bar this year, beating him in the $7,000 Double Bid June 28. Real Charger will be attempting to equal one of Kaweah Bar's records this evening, that being a seven-time winner at a Los Alamitos meeting. Kaweah Bar visited the winner's circle seven times at the Orange County track in 1968.

For the second year in a row, union members with paid up 1969 union cards will be admitted free to the grandstand area for tonight's nine-race Labor Day program. First post will be at 7:45 p.m.

ALL HARMONY could upset the field. ALL HARMONY figures 0 on chart.
